

States' Democrats Near Showdown in Party Power Fight

Committee Meets Saturday
To Pick At-Large Candidates

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The struggle for power in the Democratic party of Wisconsin probably will reach a decisive climax here Saturday afternoon in a crowded and cluttered headquarters office of the Democratic state organization.

Members and officers of the Democratic state committee will meet to select candidates for state delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention, according to the official agenda dispatched with the meeting notices. Actually the deep-seated rivalry between top men of the party machine is likely to come to a head.

The factions are led by Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Chairman Louis Hanson, on the one hand, and Gov. John W. Reynolds and National Committeeman Patrick J. Lucey, on the other.

"Favorite Son" Issue
The showdown votes here may determine:

1. Who will be the "favorite son" candidate of the party in the April presidential primary elections as a "stand in" for President Johnson.

If the Nelson-Hanson faction gets into control, there may be resistance to the planned entry of Gov. Reynolds for the favorite son role. The name of Nelson may be proposed by his backers.

2. Whether the Nelson elements in the party will decide to unseat Lucey as the organization boss at the party state convention in the spring.

Nelson has been gunning for Lucey, with the help of Hanson, and he has hinted that he may run for the national committee seat. Hanson has thrown out public charges about Lucey's "machine-like" methods.

Those questions are not likely to be voted upon squarely by the committee Saturday, but they will figure obliquely and indirectly.

Hanson Claims Victory
At the last showdown meeting here a month ago the Lucey-Reynolds bloc on the committee won all rounds, although several of them by narrow margins.

Since that time Chairman Hanson especially has been claiming a victory for his side in the district caucuses of the party which he has said have nominated a majority of pro-

Secretary of Baker Refuses To be Witness

Reads Statement
Denying Legal or
Moral Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nancy Carole Tyler, Bobby Baker's striking brunette secretary, refused today to answer questions from Senate investigators, but denied she was "guilty of any legal or moral wrongdoing."

The former Tennessee beauty queen, speaking with her Southern accent, read a statement in which she invoked her 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination, accused the Senate Rules Committee of invading her privacy, and said its investigation served no valid legislative purpose.

Appeals to Public
"I pray that the public will keep an open mind regarding me in order to insure that no further irreparable injury results to my reputation," Miss Tyler said in her statement at the televised hearing in the Senate's big, marble-pillared caucus room.

Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, also refused to answer questions Tuesday about how she enriched herself while in his Senate post.

Miss Tyler, 24, had been subpoenaed to tell what she knew about Baker's outside business and financial dealings. She served as his Capitol secretary, and now is working in his law office here.

Has Own Attorney
Like Baker, she refused to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination, and also invasion of privacy.

And like Baker, she, too, had a big-name attorney by her side. Baker's attorney was Edward Bennett Williams, famous as a defense lawyer in headline cases.

Miss Tyler's attorney is Myron G. Ehrlich, 35, a veteran of practice in the District of Columbia and brother of famed, San Francisco lawyer Jake Ehrlich.

Chestnut-haired Miss Tyler arrived 10 minutes early for the hearing.

The lithe 23-year-old was described by Baker as his cousin when he moved her into a swank four-bedroom townhouse where she still lives. She now works in Baker's law office.

The Rules Committee which Tuesday heard Baker refuse more than 100 times to answer questions put off a decision whether to recommend he be cited for contempt of Congress, punishable by a year's imprisonment, a $1,000 fine, or both.

4 Children Die

WEST GARDINER, Maine (AP)—Four children died in an explosion and fire in the cellar of their incomplete home Tuesday.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, who were away from home at the time. They were on a flight from Mexico.

The jet, with a capacity of 126 passengers, was on the second lap of a flight from Mexico City to New Orleans, to Atlanta, to Washington, to New York City. It has 51 passengers and a crew of seven.

Senate Sends Tax Cut Measure to President

Johnson to Sign Bill
At 5:30 and Speak Over
TV and Radio at 5:45

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed the tax cut bill today 74-19 and sent it to President Johnson who immediately arranged to sign it at 5:30 p.m. (EST) and address the American people at 5:45 on its meaning.

The reduction, biggest in the nation's history and averaging about 19 per cent for 80 million individual taxpayers, will be reflected in pay checks starting March 4. Lower withholding rates provided in the bill go into effect then.

The White House said Johnson's address will run about 10 minutes and cover the implications of the tax program for the country. It said the speech will be carried live on all national radio and TV networks with the exception of ABC-TV. The latter will carry the address at 7 p.m.

In addition to the individual tax cuts, the $11.5 measure reduces liability for 550,000 corporate taxpayers by an average of 9 per cent.

Only the Senate vote was required to complete congressional action on the bill today. All debate in both branches was wrapped up yesterday and the House cleared the compromise measure 326 to 83.

Formalities such as preparing an engrossed copy of the bill were completed in advance so that it could be rushed to the White House.

With Johnson signing today, pay checks delivered starting March 4 should reflect the new lower tax withholding rates provided in the bill.

The House passed the compromise version of the legislation.

The late President John F. Kennedy had agreed to ship half of the grain in American ships when the sales were arranged last fall. But the way was left open then to waive the requirement.

Sale Not Affected
The 50-50 agreement will not cover the sale of 1 million tons of wheat to the Soviet Union by the Continental Grain Co., because final details of that deal have already been worked out.

Three unions—the International Longshoremen's Association, the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers' International Union—started the boycott after the U.S. Maritime Administration agreed to let Continental ship 62 per cent of the wheat in non-American ships.

In Houston, Tex., where the freighters Ingui and Umran have been idled by the boycott, the agent for the Ingui said he was certain it would be loaded this week, after the Umran is filled. Both are to carry Continental wheat.

Canadian Liberals
Survive Close Vote

OTTAWA (AP)—The minority Liberal party government of Lester B. Pearson survived a Conservative motion of non-confidence in the House of Commons Tuesday night by 8 votes.

It was the government's closest shave since it came to power 18 months ago.

Handled Son's Finances
Dodge, heir to millions from his father, auto pioneer Horace E. Dodge Sr., and his mother were very close.

Friends said Mrs. Dodge handled much of her son's finances and often made loans to him.

Off-married Dodge died last Dec. 22 in his 60s. He left several wills. The exact value of his estate has yet to be determined.

The letter he wrote his mother about his debts to her presumably was written on the assumption he would outlive her. Had this happened, it has been estimated he would have been worth $65 million.

Probate Judge Ernest C. Bohem set April 22 for a hearing on Mrs. Dodge's claims and those of other creditors of her son. Other survivors include his wife, the former Gregg Sherwood of Beloit, Wis.

Turks Challenge Order
In a move obviously aimed at defending the island's independence and territorial integrity, Maj. Gen. R. M. Carver, commander of the British peacekeeping force on Cyprus, said Tuesday that two Greek Cypriots would be well-estimated to number as many as 30,000 men and women.

The Greek Cypriots outnumbered the Turkish Cypriots 4 to 1, and their armed irregulars have sworn allegiance to the Makarios government and promise to defend the island's independence and territorial integrity.

Makarios recently admitted his government has been importing arms "to safeguard the territorial integrity of the island in face of threats of a Turkish invasion."

He said it could be interpreted as a move to deprive, invasion.

Higher-Grade Products Big Objective of Paper Industry

Best Way to Meet Problem
Of Low Prices, Speaker Says

BY PHIL KUEPER
NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the American Paper and Pulp Association says the paper industry's development of higher-grade products is probably the best way to meet the problem of low paper prices.

Maxwell D. Bardeen said the paper industry needs what he termed a "more realistic" price structure.

Bardeen said paper prices were at or below the level of 1956.

"I don't know many industries that are selling their products at a 1956 price level," Bardeen told a news conference Tuesday during the industry's 87th annual Paper Week.

New Products Sought
"I suppose all paper companies are upgrading product makes—making grades to sell at higher prices," he added.

Research and development, he said, appeared to be the key to improving prices and profits.

Companies had already made great progress, he said, in cutting production costs.

Production of paper and paperboard reached a record 39 million tons in 1963. Sales were a record $16.2 billion. The industry operated at 92 per cent of capacity last year, one of the highest operating rates for any industry.

Profits Decline
Paper company profits, however, dropped to an estimated $610 million from $623 million in 1962. The industry's best profit year was 1956, when earnings totaled $580 million.

At the same time, last year's earnings were a sharp improvement over the 1952-53 average of $540 million.

Imports, said Bardeen, were a relatively small problem for the paper industry.

As for competition of other materials like plastics in the packaging industry, Bardeen noted that there were instances where the combination of paper

True, and there cannot be. Adolescents have to rebel from authority in order to establish their own autonomy. At times the teen-ager's efforts to grow up and stand on his own feet are clumsy, crude and uncomfortable. But there is no panacea, because he must grow up and out from his earlier dependence upon adults. As he matures he becomes able to take authority in stride as an adult must. In the meantime, some insubordination is to be expected.

Enthusiastic Neenah Brothers Plan 2,000-Mile Bike Trip to California

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A pair of husky young Neenah brothers will pedal their way into adventure when June and two new lightweight bicycles arrive. They'll embark on a 2,000 mile journey from the twin cities to California: and even now the brothers are gearing for the journey.

Steve, 21, and Jim, 17, are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Thomas, who have given a thoughtful "okay" to the venture. The boys' father, however, has advised them in a paternal way. Said he: "When you get too tired to go on you can telephone me from Oshkosh. I'll come out and pick you up."

But the two young athletes have no thought of failing to run the gamut of wrinkled and difficult geography which includes valleys, plains and parts of the troublesome Rocky Mountains which are ill constructed for bicycles, no matter how young, no matter how brave.

"But," said Steve, "we're both of $250, they will travel as the in pretty good shape. We've both wind listeth. They will pack a been active in athletics and total tent for sleeping in the we're both weight lifters. The bush country and they will tote trip over the Rockies might be food in minimal amounts to as- though but I'm sure we'll make suage their whopping appetites.

Badger Northland, Inc. Reports Net Sales Down in First Fiscal Half

KAUKAUNA — Badger Northland, Inc. reports net sales of $4,371,000 for the first half of its fiscal year, the period ending Dec. 31, 1963, compared with $4,422,000 a year ago.

The six months net profit after taxes for the farm mechanization equipment maker declined to $137,000 from $207,000 last year, the equivalent of 38 cents per share against 42 cents.

In the interim report Vincent Rohl, president, stated that although sales are slightly lower than a year ago, "the outlook for orders is extremely encouraging."

Inventories and accounts receivable were reduced by a combined total of $1,739,000 in the six months, owing to better controls and seasonal trends. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities improved to 3.1 to 1 from 1.81 to 1 on June 30, 1963.

Directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share payable March 16 to shareholders of record on Feb. 28.

Secretary of State Seeks Fifth Term

MADISON (AP)—Secretary of State Robert C. Zimmerman announced himself a candidate for a fifth consecutive term.

The 54-year-old Republican said his previous victories at the polls "seem to indicate that the 'Zimmerman service' provided for the secretary of state's office has won approval of citizens."

"If re-elected, I promise that the same conscientious service will be continued," Zimmerman said in a statement.

He was first elected in 1956 after successfully opposing the GOP's endorsed candidate, Mrs. John Wise, in the party primary.

Republican endorsement has regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share payable March 16 to shareholders of record on Feb. 28.

Paris Designers Divulge Their Spring Secrets

PARIS (AP)—Oo-la-la, those zing through haute couture circles this week as famous fashion designers displayed for buyers and fashion writers in showings that ended three weeks ago.

The hemlines remained about the same—generally covering the knees. But the necklines well—

The Big Plunge

Necklines varied from a sexy, low-cut daring depth to scooped-out fronts.

Suit necklines and blouses are built up, with suits featuring white linen collars and cuffs and blouses with large pussy cat or butterfly bows to short narrow ascots, worn off center.

If hemlines are at a status quo, interest is lent by pleating, multiple, sunray, fan, accordion, or shutter. Kerchief points appear on dressy sheer fabrics, scalloped and flying pleated panels on daytime shirts and dresses.

Waistline Drop

Focus is on the waistline, which tends to drop to the hips either by a low-placed belt, martingale or bows, or a fool-the-eye pointed yoke.

Focus, too, is on shoulders. They are arched, sometimes built out or slightly puffed.

Every designer is talking about shape achieved through skilled cut and intricate seaming. Suits look younger with their just-below-the-hipbone jackets, pleated skirts and cut, which fits the body closer.

Dior's two-piece white linen suit is called "Monte Carlo". The straight skirt has two pleats. The blouse is of navy blue linen and is worn with a belt and collar outside the jacket. A touch of red trims the blue straw hat. (AP Wirephotos)

Pink crepe was chosen for this cocktail ensemble from the spring collection of Dior. The jacket, with a rose of the same fabric, and the cuffs of the loose sleeves, are trimmed with pearl drops.

Clean, Mend Frames When Housecleaning

Don't overlook those pictures hanging on your walls when housecleaning this spring. Framed pictures need the same care and attention as your other accessories to keep them in tip-top shape.

If a picture has glass, clean the glass with a damp cloth, wrung as dry as possible. Even a small amount of moisture on the glass can seep along the edges and ruin the picture or the mat.

Avoid soap as this leaves a slight film on the glass and attracts dust and soot. Commercial glass cleaners are good, but be sure to polish well so that no film remains.

Dust your pictures thoroughly with a soft lintless cloth. If the frame is decorated with carving or ornamentation that catches dust, clean with a small soft paint brush, then polish the frame lightly with a clean cloth. Spring is also the time to examine your pictures closely to be sure they're in good repair. If you find small cracks in the frames, stick shellac, which comes in several wood colors as well as gold and silver, can be used to repair them. Heat the shellac and apply like the sealing wax.

And while you're at it, take a good look at how your framed pictures are hung. Just like furniture needs an occasional rearranging to get a fresh, lively look to your house, so do pictures.

The Ailing House Radiator Water Builds Up

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Water seems to accumulate daily in the air-vent valves in several of our radiators. How can we correct this?

A: Tilted radiators frequently cause this condition. All radiators should stand perfectly level or tilt slightly toward the drain, to assure free flow. Place small blocks of wood, one-quarter of an inch thick, under radiator legs at valve end. Water will also accumulate in a vent if the shut-off valve is kept partly open; always keep it either wide open or tightly shut. The affected vent valves may be defective. Remove the valve from a densation collecting on the base-ment cold water pipes, then problem?

If the radiator then functions properly, a new valve is necessary. Q: We have a problem, during summer comes, and so would like to finish off the basement into an extra bedroom before summer comes, and so would use as a family room. How can we eliminate the pipe moisture dropping down on the floor. We

Your Problems

Ann Says Landlady Not Up to Setting Morality

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just caught up with some of your streamlined, 20th century advice to "nosey land-ladies."

No wonder people like you. You conveniently look the other way while they raise hell. You call it "minding your own business."

I'm a landlady who doesn't stand for any kitchy-kooon' on my premises. I own two buildings and my caretakers have orders to tell me if any female tenant has male guests who leave after 10:00 a.m. Now you know very well, Ann Landers, that a single girl living alone who entertains men until dawn is not playing scrabble.

It's not enough that people pay their rent and not rip out the plumbing. I expect decent morals from my tenants and if they don't measure up, they can live someplace else.—Aunt Nettie from Wilkes-Barre

Dear Aunt Nettie: Don't deceive yourself into believing you rules have saved even one maiden from taking the primrose path. If that's the path they want to travel, they'll travel it. And by the time a girl is old enough to rent her own apartment, she's decided.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so ashamed of my problem letter from the young mother who was being driven nuts by her four young children could have been written by me.

I am 16, a junior in high school, get good grades, have lots of friends and am considered an extrovert. I go to bed every night at about 10:00 p.m. but I can't sleep because I am afraid. Don't ask me what I'm afraid of—I don't know. Sometimes I don't get enough sleep. Other times I'm afraid someone will get into my room and harm me. I always sleep with a stuffed dog so I will have something to cling to.

I baby-sit almost every Friday and Saturday night and am never afraid in anyone else's home. Do I have insomnia or a loose screw? Please help me. Warren, Pa.

Dear Warren: The fear of sleeplessness can be more damaging than lack of sleep. See your family doctor. He will explain that many people who fear they are not getting enough sleep, get more sleep than they think. He may also tell you to retire at 11:00 instead of 10:00, drink a glass of warm milk, take a warm bath, and read in bed for 15 minutes . . . etc.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the young mother who was being driven nuts by her four young children could have been written by me.

I was in worse shape than she was. I lived with a haunting fear that I might go completely drastic. A friend suggested a solution. I believe it will save hers, too.

One Sunday I announced to my husband and children that I was going to my room for three hours to read, and relax. I made it clear that nothing short of an explosion would get me out of that room.

At first the kids came to the door, one after the other—each with an excuse. But I held firm, through all the whining, fighting and tears and finally they were sure I meant business. My husband, when he knew he had no choice, dealt with the "emergencies" beautifully. I have kept this up for almost a year and now I know I've made it.—S.B.

Dear S. B.: In the face of everything that's been said in behalf of togetherness, I'm delighted to print a word in support of "a partness." Thanks for writing.

SEAMS TO ME Questions On Sewing

By Patricia Scott

Q: What is the difference between a corded and a piped seam? Whow are they made?

MRS. A. B. L.
A. A corded seam has cord inserted between the edges of a plain seam. The cord edge is placed toward the bod; with the cord extending seam line (Figure 1). A piped seam is made by folding a bias strip of fabric and inserting it between the edges of a plain seam with the folded edge of the piping toward the body of the garment (Figure 2).

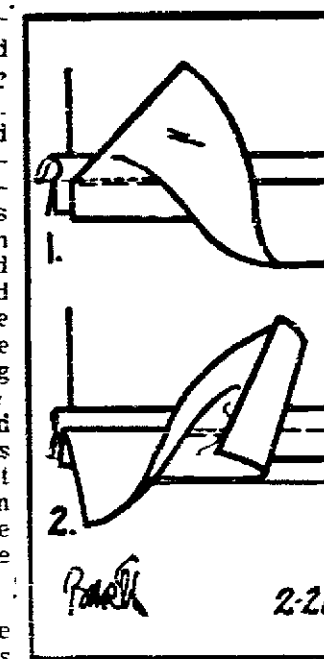

Pat Scott
Q: Is it necessary to interface collars, even if the fabric is rather firm?

MISS M. G.
A. Yes. Collars have a much finer appearance when interfaced.

Q: I always have so much trouble ripping seams. Is there a special way to do this or is a special instrument used?

MRS. M. M.
A. Notions counters carry a seam ripper that makes the job very easy. It comes with complete instructions.

Q: I have one velvet dress and I'm afraid to press it. You've mentioned needle boards for this purpose, but after seeing how much they cost, could you tell me of another alternative?

MRS. J. L.
A. If you're careful, you can fold a heavy Turkish towel and use it as a cushion. But don't expect the results to be as good as with a needle board.

Q: I'm a novice at sewing. What is meant by a placket?

MISS P. M.
A. An opening in a seam that is generally in the front or on the side of a garment. To this opening you attach fastenings such as zippers, snaps or hooks and eyes.

In response to requests for her series on slipcovers, Patricia Scott has compiled them in booklet form. How to Make Slipcovers.

For your copy, write to Miss Scott in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

"Wisconsin's Freshest and Finest"

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

RESPECTING A NAME

Dear Louise: My husband received a business promotion with a substantial raise in salary. For the first time, I have domestic help. I recently engaged a highly recommended maid who reports to work next week. Her first name is Davis. When I asked her how she would prefer to be called, she answered, "Mrs. Smith." I was taken aback and wonder if I should force the issue. Addressing her as "Mrs. Smith" seems to be going too far.

Louise Davis Answers: Your new employee is entitled to be called "Mrs. Smith". Everyone is entitled to the same consideration, no matter what his (or her) job or station in life. Why begin breeding resentment by insisting on Elizabeth or Betty? It can very easily get the employer-employee relationship off to a bad start.

GIFT UNWILLINGLY RETURNS

Dear Louise: For my birthday yesterday I received from a friend the very same present I had given her for Christmas in 1962! I recognized it from a pencil mark I put on the bottom of the box myself. Imagine how I feel. Insulted, of course. Should I mention this when I "thank" her for it?

Louise Davis Answers: No. When you opened the gift, you were undoubtedly surprised or a little shocked, but why let it put a crimp in your friendship by referring to it? Just sincerely thank your friend for the gift as if nothing happened. Imagine how she'd feel if you call her attention to it. You can be sure she didn't do this intentionally. If you have a sense of humor, you will eventually laugh it off. Meanwhile, I advise you to keep your little secret.

To Your Good Health

Kidney Stones Can't All be Dissolved

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. much pain as from an entire operation. And then some.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had several recent attacks from a kidney stone about the size of a pea. The doctors tell me it cannot be dissolved, that it is too large to pass by itself. The attacks were extremely painful at the time but after a shot of some relaxing drug I was fine again. However, the doctors recommend surgery or else the kidney may be irreparably damaged.

I understand you have stated that kidney stones CAN be dissolved. May I have further information? (Mrs. B. B.)

Yes. I wrote that, and it is true. I said that some kidney stones can be dissolved. I did not say that all can.

In most kidney stone attacks you suffer several times as

Up to now, we know how to dissolve some kidney stones, but not gall stones. I keep making this distinction because people confuse the two—that is, until they have one or the other.

There are different kinds of kidney stones. Some dissolve; some don't. The size also is important. When a stone, because of size or chemical type, will not dissolve, then get it out surgically. Otherwise it will keep on causing trouble (infection and bleeding) and may, as you were told, damage the kidney besides. The "dissolving" procedure is a technical hospital procedure. Your urologist should decide whether it is for you.

Dry Cough

Dear Dr. Molner: My 68-year-old uncle has lived with us for some time since his wife passed away.

In the last three years he has developed a dry, hacking cough from smoking too many cigarettes, but he refuses to be X-ray-

ed. He smokes three packages a day besides cigars and a pipe once in a while. He argues that he doesn't inhale and it doesn't hurt him. We can't accept that and we keep pleading with him, but he is a stubborn as a mule. We all read your column. Perhaps your advice will help. (Mrs. K. A.)

I doubt that my advice will help, but I'll try.

Is the dispute over his smoking the real issue, or is it just confuse the two—that is, until the focus of friction between you?

Anyway, I don't know how you can make him stop smoking or make him have an X-ray or anything else, if he doesn't want to. He certainly has read about the surgeon general's report on smoking. I hope he will heed it.

I do not believe it possible to smoke without getting some of it into the nose, throat and lungs even if you "don't inhale." It generally irritates these membranes. Hence a "cigarette cough."

I wish the surgeon general's report had added one more thing. Instead of stressing the serious diseases, it might have pointed out that a chronic cough is a strain even if you don't have lung cancer.

Personally I like the logic of a San Francisco doctor who, several years ago, quit smoking just because he didn't want coughing to interrupt his sleep. I think it's a perfectly valid reason.

NOTE TO L.A.C.: After three doctors independently have said the "tightness across the stomach" is nerves, why not suspect that maybe they are right? Anyway, give the theory a try. Tell yourself, every morning, "I'm worrying without good reason—so let's, for today, just enjoy life." And if this works once, try it twice.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-ad-

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS

1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... nasty parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

New pep for tired husbands!

Churning tensions that millions of men face on their jobs constantly drain them of energy and vitality they might otherwise have.

That's why many leading nutritionists recommend Kretschmer Wheat Germ. America's great "bounce-back" food. Made from the nutrition-rich heart of the wheat kernel, wheat germ is one of the most healthful foods known.

Kretschmer Wheat Germ actually provides a total of 30 nutrients helpful to good health, vigor and stamina! In addition, it acts like a spark plug to help the body use other high-energy foods more fully.

Serve your husband this remarkable pep-builder food every day for breakfast and see for yourself how much more zip and vitality he has.

Use these delicious, tiny toasted flakes as a cereal, on cereals, or add to pancakes and scrambled eggs.

Kretschmer Wheat Germ is great for the entire family, so be sure to get some. Look for it in vacuum-sealed jars in the cereal section of your food store. Choose regular or Sugar 'N Honey.

Guilty Pleas Solve 44 Break-Ins in 9 Counties

Three Twin Cities Residents Appear in Winnebago County Court on Charges Today

OSHKOSH — Forty-four burglaries in nine counties were cleared up today with guilty pleas entered in Winnebago County Court by three men, two from Neenah and one from Menasha.

Pre-sentence investigations have been ordered by Judge James V. Sitter for John Bille, 25, 954 Cold Spring Road, Menasha, and Roman Koerber, 37, 206 Abbey Ave., and Karl Campbell, 21, 150 E. Forest Ave., both of Neenah. Sentencing was set for March 18.

Bille pleaded guilty to 33 counts of burglary in the nine counties; Campbell to 26 counts in eight counties, and Koerber to 13 counts of burglary in three counties and one count of theft in Menasha.

Historical Unit To Advise on Grignon Home

Organization Says Leaflets, More Care Could Draw Visitors

KAUKAUNA — Ald. William Rogers (5th Ward) has received a letter from the State Historical Society offering to furnish advice on restoration work at the Grignon Home.

The organization said no funds were available to assist in the work, but suggested local organizations produce an attractive brochure to portray the Grignon Home, and other items of interest.

These brochures could be left with travel bureau offices, information offices kept by newspapers, motels and restaurants, according to the letter. "Before visitors are attracted to the site, it is vital the facility be prepared to handle visitors in an effective manner," the letter said.

Could Attract Visitors

Raymond Sivesind, the writer, said the home has not been presented in a really effective and interesting manner since the late William Wolf was curator many years ago. "The Grignon Home is a significant historic site, and if it is kept open on a regular operating schedule and the visiting public provided with an informative, interesting presentation, it could attract a substantial number of visitors," he said.

He advised the early history of the home was much more important than the Grignon family's contribution to history during the last generation of the home.

Neenah Woman's Specific Bequests Total $20,000

OSHKOSH — The late Gertrude Sawyer, Neenah, widow of the founder of the Sawyer Paper Co. of Neenah, left specific bequests totaling $20,000, according to terms of her will admitted Tuesday by County Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Mrs. Sawyer died Jan. 24. The value of her estate has been listed as unknown and undetermined.

Many of the specific bequests were to nieces and nephews, sisters-in-law and a brother-in-law. First Presbyterian Church of Neenah was named to receive a $1,000 bequest. Gordon W. Sawyer, Neenah, a nephew, was left 300 shares of stock in the Sawyer Paper Co. plus one-third of the residue of the estate and $1,000 as a specific bequest. A sister-in-law, Elina Sawyer, Neenah, was left a $1,000 bequest and $1,000 also was left to E. W. Krautkramer, Neenah, a nephew. Another $500 was left to Bertha Grant, Neenah, a former employee.

The remaining two-thirds of the residue of the estate is to be divided equally among two nieces, Gertrude A. Jakus, Valparaiso, Ohio, and Joan K. Bay, Valdosta, Ga., and a nephew, Edward Willis Krautkramer, Milwaukee. They also received certain bequests of $3,000 each and specific personal effects and furnishings.

Injured Girl to be in Hospital for 2 Months

KIMBERLY — Hospitalized with a broken leg suffered Saturday, Jean Van Hout, 7-year-old Kimberly girl, will be a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital for about two months her mother was told.

Jean, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Van Hout, 315 S. Sidney St., incurred the injury when she darted from between parked cars into a car driven by Mrs. Verne C. Oudenhoven, 148 N. Wilson St.

Bille had been driving a car with customized taillights which were noticed by a motorist near the Rieckmann Brothers establishment in the Town of Dale Jan. 7. The next day the motorist read the building had been entered and notified authorities.

A week later a New London policeman became suspicious of a car driving around and spotted the unusual taillights. He copied the license number. The next day two burglaries were reported in New London. A license number check traced the car to Bille. Authorities found stolen merchandise in Bille's home and he implicated the other two.

Major Share While the trio was involved in the major share of burglaries, they never worked as a trio. Some of the break-ins were committed by Bille and Doerber; some by Bille and Campbell and some individually.

Almost all the merchandise taken was recovered and returned to the owners. In some cases nothing was stolen. The burglaries dated from Sept. 6, 1950, to Jan. 17 of this year.

Woman Faces Charge of Bad Conduct

A charge of disorderly conduct was brought against a woman patient in Appleton Memorial Hospital where she is being treated for injuries she received when she fell on a street in Menasha.

Named in the warrant is Mrs. Russell Hoerning, 1528 N. Racine St., Appleton. Appleton police said Mrs. Hoerning left her purse on a railing on the Memorial Drive bridge early Monday morning.

Passers-by saw the purse and thought a woman had jumped from the bridge.

Police searched the area below the bridge and found no evidence anyone had jumped. An investigation followed the incident and resulted in Mrs. Hoerning's arrest. She is scheduled to be arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 when she is released from the hospital.

Mrs. Hoerning is alleged to have told friends she left the purse on the bridge so police would think she jumped from the railing.

Police said Mrs. Hoerning went to Menasha after the incident and was being questioned by Menasha police when she slipped on an icy curbing and fell, injuring her ankle and back.

New London Man Held for Burglary

Orville C. Schucknecht, 17, 603 E. Washington St., New London, is being held on bond of $2,500 in the Outagamie County jail charged with entry at Mac's Landing, Town of Horton.

Schucknecht appeared today in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 where an attorney was appointed to represent him. He was arrested after an investigation by sheriff's authorities and county police.

thousands assignments, council members and other elected officials put into their respective tasks.

He is the personnel director at the Valley Iron Works Corp. He said the personnel committee's work was just beginning, but it has already grown into an important staff function for the city.

For months the committee has been in negotiations with Teamsters Local 563 over a 1964 contract for a group of public works department employees, along with dealing with other personnel matters.

Mitchell said he received the resignation "with deep regret."

"Mr. Barker has certainly done an outstanding job on the personnel committee and with his tremendous amount of background was able to contribute much to the committee and city," Mitchell said.

Barker said if more people participated in government they would better appreciate "the long hours of work, often on

Easter Seal Drive to Start Sunday, Run Until March 29

Two-Thirds of Outagamie Funds To Go to County Handicapped

"Look—now I have two foot-prints!" This was the comment of 9-year-old Pat Kohl, Appleton, to his therapist when walking in new snow after being given an artificial limb recently by the Outagamie County Easter Seal Society.

The nationwide Easter Seal drive will be conducted from March 1 to 29. Two-thirds of the funds raised in Outagamie County go directly for care, treatment and equipment for handicapped persons in the county. Last year the Wisconsin Easter Seal Society gave $15,000 to the University of Wisconsin Research Center.

The Outagamie County Easter Seal Society raised almost $8,800 last year, and is aiming for $11,000 this year. Mrs. R. W. Schroeder, 1202 N. Appleton St., is campaign chairman.

Started in 1926 The Easter Seal Society was established in 1926 by a group of housewives, businessmen and professional men who realized the need for an active group to assist the handicapped in securing aids available to them and to help them when others had ceased to aid them.

Many Outagamie County children and adults have benefited from the purchase of artificial legs and arms, eyes, hearing, and talking devices and orthopedic equipment to correct or prevent deformities. Mrs. Carl E. Leedke, Kaukauna, a volunteer worker and registered nurse, visits and screens each family brought to her attention that needs aid.

The Easter Seal Homecraft Gift Shop, 217 E. College Ave., is operated for the sale of articles made by handicapped adults unable to work at jobs outside their homes. Clients must be Wisconsin residents at least 16 years of age. All operating expenses for the gift shop are paid for by Easter Seals, and clients receive the entire sale price of each article sold.

Recommend Expansion of Appleton Youth Aid Office

Juvenile Delinquency Experts on Committee, Attorney Meet In Peace, Quiet

Recommendations the Appleton police juvenile aid office be County Sheriff's Department Juvenile aid officer, and Dr. Gilgiamie County consider a juvenile detention center came of Tuesday from a panel of five experts in the war against juvenile delinquency.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr, the county's juvenile court judge, told a meeting of the League of Women Voters "juvenile delinquency is certainly not on the decrease in Outagamie County."

Others in the panel were Chester Luce, child welfare supervisor and court intake worker for Outagamie County, Capt. Vilas Burmeister, former youth aid bureau officer for the Appleton police department, Lt. Joseph VandenOver, Outagamie County Sheriff's Department Juvenile aid officer, and Dr. Gilgiamie County consider a juvenile detention center came of Tuesday from a panel of five experts in the war against juvenile delinquency.

Judge Dohr and others on the panel supported the idea Outagamie County join with one or two other counties in building a juvenile detention or correction shelter. Judge Dohr and Luce cited the high cost of private institutions and the overcrowded conditions of state facilities in support of a local center.

Judge Dohr said he became personally concerned when the Appleton Police Department absorbed the juvenile and bureau and placed the function of the juvenile officer under the detective bureau. He recommended if the Appleton police department "could not justify a one-man bureau, steps should be taken to see that the bureau is increased to perhaps two or three policemen."

Change Terms Capt. Burmeister said bureau terminology had been deleted from the police department organization, but one man in the department continues to function as the juvenile officer. He handles dispositions of the juvenile after his case has been investigated by detectives. Burmeister was replaced as juvenile officer by Patrolman David Young in February when Burmeister became a shift captain.

Under present arrangements, the Appleton library provides extension services to county schools and also permits county residents who are not residents of Appleton to use the library without charge.

Not Soon Bebeau said the board is not expected to reach a decision soon on what steps to take, since county support will continue through 1964. Possible future arrangements could be a fee system with individuals or a contract with townships or schools systems, he said.

The board agreed with a suggestion by Bebeau that a meeting be arranged with the Kaukauna Public Library board or the extension committees of the two boards to discuss the situation. The Kaukauna library also provides school extension services. The meeting has not yet been set up.

In recent years the Appleton board has sought an increase in the county appropriation to the library on the basis of a cost analysis of library use by non-residents of Appleton. The county appropriation has been increased from $6,300 in 1962. The board had sought a $13,711 appropriation last year.

James Busch, 36, pleaded guilty Tuesday to the altered charge, and will be sentenced March 6. He is being held without bond in the Outagamie County jail.

The man was charged with the armed robbery after his arrest in Menasha following the incident. A bartender said Busch produced a pistol and ordered him into the basement. Busch then took over $100 from the cash register behind the bar.

Police said Busch has admitted he purchased a toy pistol for 79 cents from a department store and used it in the hold-up. He has since disposed of the pistol. He identified another toy pistol as similar to the one he used in the robbery.

Police said Diedrick and a woman employee had been in an argument before he was struck by the pan.

Darboy Congregation Plans School, Convent Additions

Bids on $110,000 Classroom Project to be Let March 15

DARBOY — Plans for an ized heating system installed in eight-classroom addition to Holy, 1955 which is capable of han- Angels School were unveiled by the Rev. William Rickert, pas- tor, at the annual parish meet- ing. The school addition, Father Rickert said, was one of two building projects slated by the congregation. The other is a four-bedroom addition to the made on filling what is locally referred to as the "fish pond."

Construction work is expect- ed to begin as soon as possible in spring so that the structure is ready for the opening of the 1964-65 school year. Estimated by the Hoffman Construction Company, the fish pond is a large excavation behind the par- ish grounds which, if filled, could serve as a playground and gram. The school now has 302 pupils.

Building plans are being pre- pared by Harry Williams, a Green Bay architect, and should be completed soon for final ap- proval by the building commit- tee and Father Rickert.

Bidding Set
Bids will be sought in early March. About 12 contractors are expected to vie for the school contracts. The convent addition plans will be made available to area house builders for bidding. Bids will be let by March 15 and contracts awarded shortly thereafter, Father Rickert said.

Four of the new classrooms will be put into use during the next school term. One room will be used for a school and parish library. The structure will in- clude an office for the princi- pal. Estimated costs of the convent addition are $12,000. Included will be four bedrooms and a community room. The present convent was built in 1935 for $8,000.

Founded in 1850
Holy Angels congregation was founded in 1850. Its first school was built in 1883 at a cost of $1,626. The present school was built in 1940 for $27,760 and a two - classroom, kitchen and meeting room addition was add- ed in 1955 at a cost of $61,113. When compared with the 1955 project, estimated costs of the proposed addition seem low. Fa- ther Rickert said. This is due partially because of the central-

Steiger, who is a member of the Oshkosh council, is current- ly out of the city. He accepted the nomination by letter, saying "Inasmuch as this is a campaign year and I have had some previous experi- ence in this position, a number of the executive board members felt that I could contribute something worthwhile to our county program. I can only say that I am grateful for your con- fidence, and shall certainly en- deavor to do my best."

Until taking over as chairman, Steiger had been finance chair- man of the county Republican organization. He was a delegate to the national Republican con- vention in 1952 and an alternate in 1956 and 1960.

P. K. Allen Fills Title Role Well

Stirring Cast, Staging Highlight Lawrence Portrayal of 'Macbeth'

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor
Lawrence College Drama De- partment Tuesday night opened its observance of the 400th birth- day of William Shakespeare with the presentation of the pro- duction of the immortal morality play, "Macbeth." Before a packed audience that warmly responded to the ever- green essay of empirical ethics based on earth's even - handed justice. Mounted on a stark stage dom- inated by a raised playing area and two bare ramps and cloth- ed, on the main, merely with lights, Lawrence's "Macbeth" drove to its ultimate climax with a dignity uninterrupted by intermission. The continual at- tention of the viewers through- out the entire two and three-quarter hour presentation is evidence of the success of the pro- duction. Director F. Theodore Cloak gathered a cast of fine appear- ing and fine-speaking people for his first production of the Scot- tish tragedy in his 34-year stay at Lawrence. The title role was in the hands of P. K. Allen, who missed lit- tle of the subtle nuances hidden in the character of a worthy

Appleton Officials See Walnut Street Tunnel

Appleton aldermen and other officials toured the $500,000 50 feet beneath the city. Walnut Street tunneling and sewer project Tuesday. Warned in advance to wear old clothes, raincoat and boots — the entourage climbed down the ladder at the open manhole at Walnut and Lawrence Streets shortly after 2 p.m. Mayor Clarence Mitchell led the way. There was a woman in the crowd, but she didn't blink an eyelash at the thought of in- specting sewer construction un-

Says Thank You For Aged Wood

Mrs. F. W. (Elizabeth) Proctor, former Appleton resi- dent, read a recent Sunday Post-Crescent describing the 11,000 year-old trees dug out of the ground during the tunnel excavation. She had lived in the area of the project and inquired whether she could obtain a piece of the ancient wood. The Post-Crescent, with the co- operation of the city engineer- ing division, obliged.

Mrs. Proctor replied today: "Thank you so much for the piece of aged tree. I was thrilled to pieces to get it. To think that I lived prac- tically over a primeval forest all of my youth and didn't know it." Mrs. Proctor lives in Spartanburg, S.C. at 504 Glendalyn Ave.

ground Construction Co., which expects to finish in late April. Tunneling was completed sev- eral weeks ago, and sewer con- struction is now moving at a rapid clip. The tour was arranged by Public Works Director Robert W. Bues to give members of the council and other officials a first-hand view of the largest, single sewer construction project ever undertaken by the city. There were no "casualties," and as one council member said, "I wasn't even bothered by claustrophobia."

Denies Passing Bad Checks Totaling $150

An Appleton man who sur- rendered himself to sheriff au- thorities Monday denied charges Tuesday he passed more than $150 in five worthless checks in Appleton. James O. Hillegas, 25, 218 E. Commercial St., pleaded inno- cent to five counts of passing worthless checks and will face trial March 23 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Bond was set at $1,000. Hillegas' request that attor- ney be appointed for him was accepted by County Judge Gus- tave Keller.

Unholy Trio

The unforgettable Wierd Sis- ters again tickled the ears of the groundlings soundly as they squealed and screamed super- bly. Lawrence's unholy trio is made up of Carol Reed, Susan Glaser and Helen Lucke. Along with Portia, Rosalind, Cleopatra and Juliet, Lady Mac- beth is one of the finest roles Shakespeare left for the ladies of the footlights. In the current production Virginia Allen has been entrusted with the part. Although her reading is intelli- gent, her portrayal lacks the drive necessary to harness and control the power of her war- rior husband and to raise the audience's hackles with the role's single-minded ambition. Despite their content her scenes lose much of their inherent col- or.

Considerable playing time could be shared if more of the cast emulated Lutz' forthright movement. Too often, the state- ly pacing of many of the prin- cipals comes painfully close to posturing. The production has a magni- ficence of color thanks to Joseph Hoofensperger's set and lighting design that has been brought to reality by Production Manager Ralph Schuetz and his crews and by the elegant costuming by Lawrence alumna Anne Glas- ner.

Opening night's audience was most generously sprinkled with out-of-town high school students. It is understood that the per- formances through Saturday night and the Sunday matinee also will have their regiments of youngsters. In fact, Law- rence's tribute to the Bard has

Party Girl Subject In Baker's Hearing

Former Secretary Asked if He Supplied Entertainment For 'Various Businessmen'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The subject of sex and party girls has finally been brought into the Bobby Baker hearings and Republicans have warned it is an angle that shouldn't be "hushed up."

The party girl question was flung into the public record Tuesday for the first time as the Senate Rules Committee questioned Baker, resigned secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, about his business dealings.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., asked Baker whether he had supplied entertainment "including party girls" for various businessmen.

Baker refused to answer.

Authority Challenged

The committee also released a transcript of a Dec. 10 closed-door session in which Curtis and Sen. Hugh Scott, R - Pa., argued the committee's authority to explore such matters.

Curtis contended that girls were solicited on government telephone lines, entertained

Okay Plan Financing for New London

MADISON (AP)— Contracts totaling $63,771 to develop plans for the cities of Franklin and New London and the village of Roberts were approved by Gov. John Reynolds Tuesday.

The contracts are with firms which will provide mapping services and economic, population and land use analyses for use in a city plan. The federal government will pay two-thirds of the cost and municipalities the remainder.

The contracts are $39,450 between Franklin in Milwaukee County and Everett Kincaid & Associates, Inc., of Chicago; $21,350 between New London in Waupaca County and Candebuh, Fleissig and Associates of Chicago and $2,971 between the village of Roberts in St. Croix County and R. C. Greaves & Associates of Eau Claire.

Co-Pilot of Crashed Plane From Wisconsin

PLATTEVILLE (AP)— Grant R. Newby, 40-year-old co-pilot of an Eastern Air Lines plane which crashed in Lake Pontchartrain near New Orleans Tuesday, was a native of Platteville.

His father was the late Dr. Grant R. Newby, a Platteville dentist for many years.

His mother has lived in Sebring, Fla., since Dr. Newby's death about two years ago.

The younger Newby graduated from Platteville High School and attended Platteville State College before joining the Air Corps in World War II. He was co-pilot of a plane which lost an engine over Texas several months ago and fell 13,000 feet before the crew made an emergency landing. Newby was unmarried.

A sister, Mrs. Jack Morrow, and a brother, John, live at Iron River, Mich.

Other victims of Tuesday's crash, which killed all 58 aboard, included Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gminski of Wauwatosa, Wis., and their daughter, Louise, 28.

Two Killed in Hollywood Bar

Disgruntled Patron Threatened to Shoot Everyone in Place

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two men were shot to death and another critically wounded early today in a famed Hollywood bar, when a disgruntled customer previously kicked out came back shooting.

The double slaying occurred in Durando's Restaurant on North Vine Street, across the street from the Steve Allen Television Studio.

Police said one of the men killed was the owner, Joe Durando Sr., 69.

Had Been Ejected

Detectives said Arthur Jacobson, 42, had been previously ejected from the restaurant because of disorderly conduct. He came back shortly before the 2 a.m. closing time, threatening to kill everyone in the place.

Detectives said Durando and a man identified as Dominick Christiano, 49, of Hollywood, were slain in the shooting that followed.

Another man, not immediately identified, was shot in the stomach and taken to a hospital in critical condition.

Police said the shooting spree came to an end when Jacobson was disarmed by a husky, young patron at the bar.

Frank Cotta, 22, a trainee at a Hollywood beautician school, was quoted as saying:

"I was awfully stunned at first, and then it finally sunk into me that he meant to kill everyone in the place."

Then Cotta jumped Jacobson, figuring "it was now or never," and disarmed him.

Detectives said Cotta then began beating Jacobson and he was still beating the fallen man when police arrived. Jacobson was taken unconscious to the prison ward of General Hospital, where he was booked on suspicion of murder.

Durando's in recent years had become a tourist attraction, due to the publicity given it by Steve Allen, who mentioned it often on his nationwide television show.

Doctor Delivers A Great-Grandson

TORONTO (AP)—Dr. G. W. Williams, 81, delivered his own great-grandson Tuesday.

It was in keeping with tradition. Twenty-one-years ago he delivered his grandson, Jeffrey, father of 8-pound, 1-ounce David Arthur Williams, newest addition to the clan.

Renk Begins All-Out Bid In Milwaukee

Walks Streets and Shakes Hands of Industrial Workers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wilbur N. Renk, who seeks the Republican nomination for U.S. senator, began his all-out bid to capture votes in Milwaukee Tuesday by pounding the streets and shaking hands of workers at industrial plants.

The 55-year-old Sun Prairie farmer-businessman said that Republicans generally have failed to get their image across.

"We have to go to the plant gates to show the people we are interested in them," he said. "We haven't done that so far."

Renk who unsuccessfully sought the GOP nomination for governor in 1962, said he plans to campaign six days a week from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. in hopes of getting the nomination and unseating Democratic William Proxmire in November.

Campaign Issues

He said that he plans to campaign on issues, not merely on criticism of Proxmire. Then he added:

"Proxmire went into the Senate as a flaming liberal and now is a conservative because he has watched the polls. We might as well have an IBM machine as a senator."

Meanwhile, Peter W. Reiss, a Sheboygan attorney and supporter of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president, announced he has asked the secretary of state's office for nomination papers for the Wisconsin Republican presidential primary in April.

Reiss said he wants to run as a delegate in the Sixth Congressional District who "would vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater on the first ballot."

Sponsors Grabbed Title Says 'Radioside' Scribe

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
 Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Old Man Barnum couldn't have pulled a better coup. We're talking about Tuesday night's world championship fight.
 Well, actually there were two battles going at once for those of us who were at radioside.
 One was in the ring at Miami where Louisville Lip Cassius Clay and Silent Sonny Liston danced about, dollar signs glowing in their eyes.
 The other was along the radio network where an all-out encounter took place to determine the champion commercial.

It represented a new dimension in fight broadcasting for us less fortunate who couldn't afford the stipend of closed circuit TV.
Short Time
 There were so many commercials before the fight one could detect the feeling sponsors were fearful that Mr. Clay would be putty in Mr. Liston's mitts, and there just wouldn't be enough time to herald the attributes of their products.
 Instead of the usual between-round commentary, Fox Cities radiosiders were mistreated to a barrage of commercials coming within split seconds of cutting in on the actual description of the ring activity. Listeners constantly heard about soft drinks, man-sized cigars, razor blades, men's hair oil and other assorted products.

 After the end of the singing commercial was punctuated with the clang of the bell to start the next round.
 The least the announcer could have said was, "We'll be back with more commercials after this next round."
 Ironically, they didn't have a judge to count commercials during the knockdowns, but he wouldn't have been needed because no one kissed the canvass.

Different Score Cards
 When the one-ring circus was over at the end of the seventh round, radio fans were treated to a steady diet of Clay and commercials.
 Clay won on a technical knockout and is the new world's champ.
 Those who kept scorecards at ringside had the fight scored even after seven stanzas of "Waltzing Matilda."

However, those of us on the receiving end of the airwaves scored the fight differently.
 The writer's scorecard had the commercials way ahead of the gladiators.
 And when adding up all the points, there was no doubt about the winners. (We rooted for the gal singing the soft drink ditty.)
 That's right, we said winners.
 The sponsors, who else?

Recommend Expansion of Youth Office

Other points covered in the panel discussion included:
 —Juveniles have the same legal rights as adult violators and are told of their rights when they are questioned by police.
 A juvenile court action can be handled by a jury, but there has never been a jury trial in a juvenile court in Wisconsin.
 —A major responsibility of juvenile officers is to train other policemen to work with juveniles. Panel members said on occasion, policemen must be reminded that dealing with children requires different attitudes of law enforcement.

Traffic Offenders
 —Most juvenile traffic offenders are waived "more or less automatically" from jurisdiction of the juvenile court, but most criminal actions involving youths 16 to 18 are kept within the juvenile court. Juvenile courts can be conducted formally or informally, and, unlike adult courts, guilt does not have to be proven "beyond a reasonable doubt." Judge Dohr told his audience, "I only have to be convinced reasonably the offender is guilty of the crime."
 —Breaking and entering crimes are the most prevalent offenses which land the offender in the juvenile court. Car theft and ordinary theft are the second and third most common offenses. Last year there were 121 defendants who were determined delinquent by the juvenile court.
 —Juveniles involved with the law "attract each other" and seem to operate in a sub-culture which has its own rules of behavior.

Soo January Finances Up This Year Over '63

January financial results for the Soo Line Railroad were up in all categories last week, according to Leonard H. Murray, president.
 Gross revenues were $6,153,785, up $84,738 from the previous January. Net operating income was up $292,387 from the same month in 1963 and other income was up $11,675 from the January, 1963 figure of $46,197.
 Total operating expenses, taxes and rents also were increased. In January, 1963, they were $5,632,205; this year the figures for January were $5,924,556, up $292,351.

Glove Compartments Being Rifled at Mill

KIMBERLY — Village police have received complaints the last few days about glove compartments in vehicles parked on the Kimberly-Clark parking lot being rifled and small items stolen.
 Police believe youngsters are responsible for the acts and advise motorists to lock their cars when about to begin shift work at the mill, particularly when the shift coincides with hours when youngsters are not in school.

havior. An experiment in Provo, Utah, is attempting to take advantage of this behavior and puts juvenile offenders in a society which sets and enforces its own rules. The experiment is six years old and is beginning to show positive results.

—Outagamie County's present juvenile jail facilities are inadequate, not only for juveniles, but for adults. Juveniles have no special facilities in the county jail, but are segregated from adult prisoners.

"That ugly old bear never got in a good lick," laughed Clay, a seemingly hopeless underdog who had befuddled the ominous Liston with his dancing ring style, drained him of his confidence, and beat him four rounds out of six before Liston quit with a shoulder injury.

"He was such an amateur he ought to have to work his way back up I want Doug Jones and Eddie Machen."

Eight Doctors Confirm Arm Injury to Liston

All Agree That Condition Rendered Sonny Defenseless

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—A team of eight physicians issued a statement early this morning that defeated heavyweight champion Sonny Liston suffered an arm injury which would have prevented him from defending himself in his title fight with Cassius Clay.
Dr. Alexander Robbins, chief physician of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission, read the statement to newsmen in a waiting room at St. Francis Hospital after Liston had been with the doctors in an X-ray room for 3½ hours.
The statement read:
"We came to the conclusion that Sonny Liston suffered an injury to the long head to the biceps tendon of the left shoulder, with the result there is separation and tear of muscle fibers with some hemorrhage into the muscle belly. This condition would be sufficient to incapacitate him and prevent him from defending himself."
Robbins said no further examination or moving commission doctors was necessary, and he would recommend to the commission that Liston's purse be released.
Liston's arm would not bring any form of permanent disability, Robbins said.
The ex-champ was not admitted to the hospital. His aides said he would return to his Miami Beach home and that he would make no statement.

Associated Press photographer James Kerlin, one of a pool group permitted to take pictures of Liston from the corridor outside the room, said Liston's arm was badly swollen.
A Liston aide said six stitches had been taken to close the cut. Liston suffered under his left eye and that plastic surgery was done so there would be no scar tissue.

UW's O'Melia Out for Year; Broken Hand

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin basketball Capt. Mike O'Melia suffered a broken bone in his right hand against Indiana and will be lost to the Badgers for their last three games of the season.

O'Melia's hand was placed in a cast Tuesday after x-rays disclosed the fracture suffered when he drove in for a layup in Wisconsin's 108-82 defeat at Bloomington Monday night.

The senior backcourt specialist from Rhinelander crashed heavily to the floor as Jack Brens tipped in his shot. O'Melia was injured when he put out his right hand to break the fall.

Unanswered Questions in Many Minds

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Cassius Clay, the fascinating Louisville blowhard who proved his fists talk as loud as his words, is the new king of the heavyweights and the boxing world still buzzed today over the bizarre events that led to the dethronement of the champion who couldn't lose, Sonny Liston.
The bull-strong, tiger-mean Liston yielded his crown while slumped ingloriously in his corner between the sixth and seventh rounds, blood gushing from a gash under his left eye and his left shoulder in severe pain.
It went into the books as a seventh round technical knockout—one of the most astounding ring upsets of all time but one that left the millions of fans pondering unanswered questions.

Other Rivals
How did it happen? When did it happen? Why didn't Liston, the awesome ring killer, demolish the loquacious Kentuckian as he had done to his other rivals in the last three years?

Liston was rushed to the St. Francis Hospital where eight physicians subjected him to a 3½ hour series of X-rays and other examinations.

The group issued a statement which said the champion had suffered an injury of the left shoulder which prevented him from defending himself.

The statement said there was a "separation and a tear of muscle fibers" with some bleeding, but gave no other details.

Liston, dressed in a red shirt and slacks, pushed his way out of the hospital without comment. His aides said he planned to go to his Miami Beach temporary home and would make no statement immediately.

His purse from the gate attendance had been ordered held up by the Miami Beach Boxing Commission pending outcome of the doctors' examination.

In Training
Jack Nilon, the ex-champion's adviser, said Liston wrenched his shoulder in training but that the two of them decided to try to bluff their way through "because we thought we could get away with it."

Nilon pointed out that Liston stopped boxing six days before the fight but others recalled that Sonny showed no signs of an ailment in other phases of training and even declared himself "in the best shape ever."

This was just one of the many contradictory aspects of the bout, which was a financial flop at the gate with 8,000 paying only $400,000 for the privilege of watching — half of the figure needed to break even.

Clay, the exultant, hysterical and almost berserk new champion, himself sought to erase any stigma from his spectacular

Cells Increase Eastern Lead; Warriors Win

Chamberlain Hits 52 as Royals Drop 117-108 Decision

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A recuperative visit to New York and a long-distance helping hand from Wilt Chamberlain have given the Boston Celtics breathing room at the top of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Celtics snapped a three-game losing string with a 114-102 victory over the Knickerbockers in the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader Tuesday night. St. Louis held off Philadelphia 113-107 in the opener.

Cincinnati left its Eastern first-place hopes in San Francisco, where Chamberlain's 52 points paced the Warriors to a 117-108 decision over the Royals.

1 1/2 Games Behind

The Boston victory and Cincinnati defeat put 1 1/2 games between the sagging Celtics and surging Royals in a surprisingly tight Eastern race. San Francisco remained two games up on St. Louis in the West.

Sam Jones and Tom Heinsohn sparked second and third period Boston point flurries and the Celtics led by 31 early in the finale before easing up. Boston held a 62-48 margin at intermission and opened it up to 94-65 after three quarters.

Heinsohn was high for the Celtics with 23 points. Bob Boozer with 23 topped the Knicks.

St. Louis squandered an 18-point halftime bulge and took a slim 87-83 edge into the final period. Then John Barnhill hit four quick baskets and the Hawks pulled away.

Bob Pettit had 31 points for St. Louis. Hal Greer paced the 76ers with 29.

Cincinnati, which now has dropped two of its last 15 games, both to the Warriors, trailed 61-55 at halftime. Oscar Robertson scored 26 points for the Royals before fouling out with 10 minutes to play.

Hortonville '5' Hands Macs First Defeat

Hortonville staged the upset of the season in the Northern Division, Badger Amateur Basketball Association, last weekend by handing the Menasha Macs their first loss, 104-102.

In other games, Kaukauna whipped Bonduel, 122-93; Marion edged Birnamwood, 71-69; and Bowler stopped White Lake, 90-76.

Hortonville's Doug Meyer sank a field goal as the buzzer sounded to break a 102-102 tie. Dennis Sommers hit 35 points for the winners, while Gerald Smith and Jim Meyer hit 33 apiece for the Macs. Hortonville, led, 54-53, at halftime, but the Macs went ahead, 81-80, after three periods.

Tom Geurts and Jim Rausch scored 32 and 25 points, respectively, for Kaukauna. Lee Otto and Gary Hovey hit 41 and 33 for Bonduel.

Unsettled by the ringing boos that rocked the arena, he screamed to all within earshot: "This was no fix. I closed both of his eyes. He didn't touch me. I didn't stop the fight. The doctors did."

Seek Answers

Seasoned boxing writers, accustomed to all sorts of weird occurrences in this sometimes sordid sport, were seeking answers to questions which they said left them befuddled.

Why wasn't Liston, the sullen destroyer who twice put away former champion Floyd Patterson in the first round, able to unleash the same devastating punching power on the fast but supposedly vulnerable Clay?

In the fifth round, when Clay came out at the bell blind and groping his way around the ring, as if half-blinded, why wasn't the disposed champion able to nail him with his fistful of dynamite?

Even if his shoulder was painful, why didn't Liston, a brute of a man, try to bull his way through, waiting for perhaps a lucky punch, against a fighter renowned as a powder-puff hitter?

Doesn't this amazing development set the stage for a return bout, which might set financial records yet undreamed of in the sport?

19th Annual Renewal

Good Hounds, Determined Men Make Caroline Fox Hunt Success

BY DAVE DUFFEY

Post-Crescent News Service

CAROLINE — It takes more than lack of snow to discourage good hounds and determined men, especially that special breed known as fox hunters.

As a result, at the Caroline Fish and Game Club's annual fox hunt, the vulpine population of southwestern Shawano County was reduced by three and the 19th annual renewal of the hunt was a howling success, all hounds considered.

It was a day not only for killing foxes, but for good natured insulting of another man's hounds, some dry runs that didn't produce fox and a good feed at Paul Merkle's tavern following the hunt.

For a few hound owners, the hunt was disconcerting. Most of it took part on the deer rich Weasel dam country between Caroline and Tigerton where the south and middle branches of the Embarras river converge. A few of the hounds took deer when it was impossible to find fresh fox tracks and their angry owners quickly intercepted them, meted out the proper punishment and locked them up in the block of country to cut off the fox when he tried to pop out.

Gets First Fox

Jerry Schuehring, route 2, Tigerton, clobbered the first fox about 9:30 a.m. About an hour and a half later 16-year-old Paul Tober also of Route 2, Tigerton, got the second fox bagged.

Because of the lack of snow, a couple of hunters and hounds would cast into a block of country, the hounds running loose until they found a track and moved a fox. Then hunters surrounded him and locked them up in the block of country to cut off the fox when he tried to pop out.

This contrasts with the procedure when there is snow. Then the hunters scout likely country looking for fresh tracks. When a set is found, the roads encircling the area are checked to make sure the fox hasn't just crossed through that particular swamp or woodlot. If it's determined he's inside, the hunters take their stations and the hounds are put on a fresh track.

With the lack of snow and the loose casting method of hunting, the foxes ran a long way ahead of the hounds last Sunday. But the 25 hunters cut down the odds in favor of the fox by the use of citizen band radios and walkie-talkies which were used to bring the scattered hunters together when they were needed to cut off the likely places a fox might cross when he was pushed out by the hounds.

Hard to Guess

Under the conditions existing, it took a good sized band of men to make sure foxes were bagged. Two or three hunters can really enjoy a fox chase with plenty of hound music, but it's hard to guess where the fox may come through. With a large group an area can be adequately covered. So on Sunday's hunt, the foxes moved were shot.

It was about 4:30 in the afternoon when the third and last fox was nailed by Alfred Westphal, route 2, Marion, as he broke out of the swamp below Peterman's hill and made for a high ridge to the north.

A quick check showed all the hounds accounted for and the hunting crew headed back for Caroline for beer and grub, the 19th annual Caroline Fish and Game Club fox hunt successfully completed.

away from the microphone, but he kept coming back, wanting to get some more steam out of his system.

He hooted at a Miami Beach Boxing Commission doctor's report that he was "scared to death" when he put on a frantic show at the weigh-in.

"I wasn't scared," he shouted. He didn't need to say this to newsmen who had seen him look straight into Liston's cobra-like stare when they first faced in the ring, then go so far as to clown with the champion at times, with his arms straight down at his sides.

"Who was scared?" he called. "I am the king. I can fight forever. I can waste eight rounds of energy at a weigh-in and still win."

Senate Sends Tax Cut Bill To President

per cent for the 15 million low-income taxpayers who will be dropped from the rolls entirely. For corporations, the reduction will average 9 per cent. However, they benefited from an investment credit provision and liberalized depreciation rules established in 1962. The Treasury estimates the overall effect is to cut corporate tax liabilities 17 per cent.

Final action on the bill comes almost exactly 13 months after the late President John F. Kennedy sent his tax message to Congress calling for a reduction in income taxes.

Late Presidents View

"The largest single barrier to full employment of our manpower and resources and to a higher rate of economic growth," said Kennedy, "is the unrealistically heavy drag of federal income taxes on private purchasing power, initiative and incentive."

Johnson gave the bill an equally high priority after he took over the White House, making it the centerpiece of his economic program.

Three members of the Wisconsin House delegation today voted against passage of the tax reduction conference report. In spite of its endorsement by Rep. John W. Byrnes, R., Green Bay, ranking GOP member of the House conference which reported the measure.

In a speech on the House floor, Byrnes explained that there were two changes in the budgetary situation which justified his approval of the conference report, although he had voted against the original tax bill last September.

Byrnes Cites Cutback

One change, he said, was the action of the appropriations committee of the house in cutting back $6 billion from the presidential budget during the latter part of last year. The second change was the $97.9 billion budget submitted by President Johnson for the fiscal year commencing July 1. He pointed out that this figure, if observed by the President, was under the $98 billion ceiling on government spending proposed by Byrnes himself.

In September as a prerequisite for a tax cut at that time, the Green Bay congressman incorporated the budgetary ceiling ing requirement in a motion on the bill which was defeated.

Byrnes warned that passage of the bill carried a responsibility on the part of the Congress and the President to "hold the line" on unnecessary spending. To do otherwise, he said, would be to "invite disaster."

Members of the delegation who voted against the conference report were Reps. Henry C. Schadeberg, Vernon W. Thomson and Melvin R. Laird, all Republicans.

Former Gov. Thomson objected to the bill because he is afraid "we may have to borrow money to make the tax cut possible," adding that he had "no confidence in the Johnson administration's intentions to keep federal spending at a level which would justify a tax cut."

were absent during the first boycott Oct. 22.

CCCO officials, who said the lesser participation was caused by several civil rights groups which opposed the boycott, expressed satisfaction.

Police said some 1,500 pickets marched around city hall and the Board of Education's downtown offices, but there were no incidents.

Police Supt. O. W. Wilson and State's Atty. Daniel P. Ward had said that persons who kept children from entering schools would be prosecuted. There were no arrests.

BOSTON (AP) — Thousands of Negro and white children boycotted the Boston public schools today to protest alleged de facto segregation.

There were no reports of any disorders connected with the boycott.

It was the second such protest in Boston in the past eight months.

The children attended 37 free schools staffed by some 600 volunteers including clergymen and faculty members of local colleges and universities. Leaders of the movement called it a "freedom stay-out."

Total school enrollment in Boston is about 93,000.

The Rev. James P. Breeden, co-chairman of the boycott, said the stay-out was "much bigger than last year's."

Nationalist China and Japan Disputes Cleared

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Former Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida reported today that he and President Chiang Kai-shek had cleared up all misunderstandings between Nationalist China and Japan.

The Japanese government sent the elder statesman to see Chiang, an old friend, after relations between the two countries were strained by increasing Japanese trade with Red China and Japan's deportation to Peking of a Chinese defector who changed his mind after saying he wanted to go to Formosa.

Pulpwood Goal Changes

Bardeen is president of the Simpson Lee Paper Co. and the Lee-Scheller Paper Co. He lives in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Another executive, M. H. Collet, told the American Pulpwood Association that the pulpwood industry is changing because of customer demand for better product packaging and increased competition from materials like plastics.

Collet, vice president and manager of forest products operations for Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., said the more successful pulpwood producers were those who concentrated on annual meeting ends Thursday.

Ike's Ex-Cook to Campaign for Lodge

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's wartime mess sergeant, who dropped everything to campaign for Eisenhower in 1952, says he's going to the same thing this year for Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Marty Snyder, now a New York restaurateur, arrived Tuesday night in New Hampshire, where the nation's first presidential preference primary will be held March 10.

"I did the same thing for Eisenhower in 1952, when he was overseas, just as Lodge is now—doing a job," Snyder said. Lodge is U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

State Tax Charge Against Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Abel Fernandez, 34, was arrested Tuesday on a charge that he failed to pay state income tax on $84,200 earnings in 1959-62.

The tax, with penalties, amounts to $4,742.

Fernandez, who appears in the "Untouchables" series on television said, "I don't know much about bookkeeping."

IRS Blunders in Filling Out Tax Form Sample

WASHINGTON (AP) — The image of Uncle Sam's tax experts as errorless computers, in dark gray suits has suffered a sharp and very public setback.

The error was simple but as embarrassing as a teacher adding two and two and getting five.

The Internal Revenue Service has blundered in filling out a form which it advises taxpayers to use as a sample.

Apparently someone copied the wrong figure in one of the spaces where wages are listed, putting down $1,375 instead of $1,025.

This mistake reduced the refund of the fictional couple, Frank and Evelyn Jones from about $114 to $33, and pretty much put the rest of the sample return out of kilter.

The IRS has printed correction sheets to be placed in front of the tax guide, "Your Federal Income Tax."

States' Democrats Near Showdown in Party Power Fight

Committee Meets Saturday
To Pick At-Large Candidates

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The struggle for power in the Democratic party of Wisconsin probably will reach a decisive climax here Saturday afternoon in a crowded and cluttered headquarters office of the Democratic state organization.

Members and officers of the Democratic state committee will meet to select candidates for state delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention, according to the official agenda dispatched with the meeting notices. Actually the deep-seated rivalry between top men of the party machine is likely to come to a head.

The factions are led by Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Chairman Louis Hanson, on the one hand, and Gov. John W. Reynolds and National Committeeman Patrick J. Lucey, on the other.

"Favorite Son" Issue

The showdown vote here may determine: 1. Who will be the "favorite son" candidate of the party in the April presidential primary elections as a "stand in" for President Johnson.

If the Nelson-Hanson faction gets into control, there may be resistance to the planned entry of Gov. Reynolds for the favor-ite son role. The name of Nelson may be proposed by his backers.

2. Whether the Nelson elements in the party will decide to unseat Lucey as the organization boss at the party state convention in the spring.

Nelson has been gunning for Lucey, with the help of Hanson, and he has hinted that he may run for the national committee seat. Hanson has thrown out public charges about Lucey's "machine-like" methods.

Those questions are not likely to be voted upon squarely by the committee Saturday, but they will figure obliquely and indirectly.

Hanson Claims Victory

At the last showdown meeting here a month ago the Lucey-Reynolds bloc on the committee won all rounds, although several of them by narrow margins.

Since that time Chairman Hanson especially has been claiming a victory for his side in the district caucuses of the party which he has said have nominated a majority of pro-

Secretary of Baker Refuses To be Witness

Reads Statement
Denying Legal or
Moral Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nancy Carole Tyler, Bobby Baker's striking brunette secretary, refused today to answer questions from Senate investigators, but denied she was "guilty of any legal or moral wrongdoing."

The former Tennessee beauty queen, speaking with her Southern accent, read a statement in which she invoked her 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination, accused the Senate Rules Committee of invading her privacy, and said its investigation served no valid legislative purpose.

Appeals to Public

"I pray that the public will keep an open mind regarding me in order to insure that no further irreparable injury results to my reputation," Miss Tyler said in her statement at the televised hearing in the Senate's big, marble-pillared caucus room.

Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, also refused to answer questions Tuesday about how he enriched himself while in his Senate post.

Miss Tyler, 24, had been subpoenaed to tell what she knew about Baker's outside business and financial dealings. She served as his Capitol secretary and now is working in his law office here.

Has Own Attorney

Like Baker, she refused to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination, and also invasion of privacy.

And like Baker, she, too, had a big-name attorney by her side. Baker's attorney was Edward Bennett Williams, famous as a defense lawyer in headline cases.

Miss Tyler's attorney is Myron G. Ehrlich, 35, a veteran of practice in the District of Columbia and brother of famed San Francisco lawyer Jake Ehrlich.

Chestnut-haired Miss Tyler arrived 10 minutes early for the hearing.

The lithe 23-year-old was described by Baker as his cousin when he moved her into a swank four-bedroom townhouse where she still lives. She now works in Baker's law office.

The Rules Committee which Tuesday heard Baker refuse more than 100 times to answer questions put off a decision whether to recommend he be cited for contempt of Congress, punishable by a year's imprisonment, a $1,000 fine, or both.

4 Children Die

In Home Blast

WEST GARDINER, Maine (AP)—Four children died in an explosion and fire in the cellar of their incomplete home Tuesday.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, who were away from home at the time. They were Karyl, 14; Kaye, 9; Karl, 2, and Kelly Thompson, 11 weeks.

Two others, Kenneth Jr., 15, and Karen, 4, were staying with their grandparents.

The letter he wrote his mother about his debts to her presumably was written on the assumption he would outlive her. Had this happened, it has been estimated he would have been worth $65 million.

Probate Judge Ernest C. Bohem set April 22 for a hearing on Mrs. Dodge's claims and those of other creditors of her son. Other survivors include his wife, the former Gregg Sherwood of Beloit, Wis.

Senate Sends Tax Cut Measure to President

Johnson Expected to Sign
Today; May Use Occasion
For Televised Address

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate sent to President Johnson today the bill cutting taxes of 80 million individual taxpayers by an average of about 19 per cent.

Johnson, who has been prodigal for speed on the $11.5 billion reduction almost from the day he took office, plans to sign it later in the day and possibly use the occasion to address the American people by television.

The bill, carrying the largest tax slash in history, also reduces liability for 550,000 corporate taxpayers by an average of 9 per cent.

Copy of Bill Ready

Only the Senate vote was required to complete congressional action on the bill today. All debate in both branches was wrapped up yesterday and the House cleared the compromise measure 326 to 83.

Formalities such as preparing an engrossed copy of the bill and that it could be rushed to the White House.

With Johnson signing today, pay checks delivered starting March 4 should reflect the new lower tax withholding rates provided in the bill.

The House passed the compromise version of the legislation Tuesday 326 to 83.

Unions Agree

To Load Grain

For Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Waterfront unions are ready to resume loading ships with U.S. wheat for the Soviet Union by the end of the week after ending a 10-day boycott.

The White House announced late Tuesday that the unions had agreed to load the wheat after President Johnson pledged that—in all future grain deals with the Soviet Union—half of the cargo would be carried in U.S. ships.

The late President John F. Kennedy had agreed to ship half of the grain in American ships when the sales were arranged last fall. But the way was left open then to waive the requirement.

Sale Not Affected

The 50-50 agreement will not cover the sale of 1 million tons of wheat to the Soviet Union by the Continental Grain Co., because final details of that deal have already been worked out.

Three unions—the International Longshoremen's Association, the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers' International Union—started the boycott after the U.S. Maritime Administration agreed to let Continental ship 62 per cent of the wheat in non-American ships.

In Houston, Tex., where the freighters Ingui and Umran have been idled by the boycott, the agent for the Ingui said he was certain it would be loaded this week, after the Umran is filled. Both are to carry Continental wheat.

Canadian Liberals

Survive Close Vote

OTTAWA (AP)—The minority Liberal party government of Lester B. Pearson survived a Conservative motion of non-confidence in the House of Commons Tuesday night by 8 votes, 128-120. It was the government's closest shave since it came to power 10 months ago.

President of Cyprus Threatens

To Disarm All Irregular Forces

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa says he never tried to bribe jurors who heard his 1962 conspiracy trial and that the one witness who said he did is a liar.

The Teamsters president's 3½-hour testimony Tuesday virtually wrapped up the case for the defense at Hoffa's trial on charges of attempted jury tampering. The trial is in its sixth week.

Hoffa denied that he sought to fix the 1962 jury at Nashville. That jury couldn't reach a verdict and a mistrial was declared.

With repeated glances and gestures toward the U.S. District Court jury, he termed the testimony against him by Edward G. Partin, the government's chief witness, "an absolute fabrication" and nothing less than perjury.

Hoffa Challenge Order

In a move obviously aimed at the Turkish Cypriot minority opposing his Greek Cypriot regime, Makarios said any Cypriote carrying arms illegally would be disarmed and anyone attempting to import arms "will be prosecuted."

Turks Outnumbered

The Greek Cypriots outnumbered the Turkish faction 4 to 1. Turkish Cypriots would be well-armed and their armed irregulars have been estimated to number as many as 30,000 men and women. The legal armed strength of the Greek Cypriots numbers 1,200 police and 270 army troops.

Maj. Gen. R. M. Carver, commander of the British peace-keeping force, termed Makarios' "porting arms" "to safeguard territorial integrity of the island" "a very clever document" "interpreted as a move to deprive invasion."

Higher-Grade Products Big Objective of Paper Industry

Best Way to Meet Problem
Of Low Prices, Speaker Says

BY PHIL KUEPER

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the American Paper and Pulp Association says the paper industry's development of higher-grade products is probably the best way to meet the problem of low paper prices.

Maxwell D. Bardeen said the paper industry needs what he termed a "more realistic" price structure.

Bardeen said paper prices were at or below the level of 1956.

"I don't know many industries that are selling their products at a 1956 price level," Bardeen told a news conference Tuesday during the industry's 87th annual Paper Week.

New Products Sought

"I suppose all paper companies are upgrading product makes—making grades to sell at higher prices," he added. "And most companies are seeking new products and new outlets."

Research and development, he said, appeared to be the key to improving prices and profits. Companies had already made great progress, he said, in cutting production costs.

Production of paper and paperboard reached a record 39 million tons in 1963. Sales were a record $16.2 billion. The industry operated at 92 per cent of capacity last year, one of the highest operating rates for any industry.

Profits Decline

Paper company profits, however, dropped to an estimated $610 million from $628 million in 1962. The industry's best profit year was 1956, when earnings totaled $680 million.

At the same time, last year's earnings were a sharp improvement over the 1958-62 average of $340 million.

Imports, said Bardeen, were a relatively small problem for the paper industry.

As for competition of other materials like plastics in the packaging industry, Bardeen noted that there were instances where the combination of paper

2 More Added To Traffic Toll

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin's mounting traffic death toll has climbed to 133, compared with 82 on this date a year ago.

Fred Doldar, 18, of Janesville was killed Tuesday night when his car crashed on Highway B about a half mile east of Highway 73 near Stoughton. A companion, Gary E. Fitzgerald, 18, of Janesville was hospitalized.

Mrs. Katie Schmiedeknecht, about 70, of Oak Creek was killed Tuesday night when she was struck by a car while crossing Highway 41 in the Milwaukee suburb.

Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director, took off his shoes to join in a dance called the "tinikling" after receiving a decoration at the Philippine embassy Monday night. Philippine Ambassador Amelito Mutoc, left, Lynn Ilusorio and Marie Martinez, join in the fun. (AP Wirephoto)

Paris Designers Divulge Their Spring Secrets

PARIS (AP)—Oo-la-la, those zing through haute couture circles this week as famous fashion houses released photographs of the spring and summer modes they displayed for buyers and fashion writers in showings that ended three weeks ago.

The hemlines remained about the same—generally covering the knees. But the necklines... well—

The Big Plunge

Necklines varied from a sexy, low-cut daring depth to scooped-out fronts.

Suit necklines and blouses are built up, with suits featuring white linen collars and cuffs and blouses with large pussy cat or butterfly bows to short narrow ascots, worn off center.

If hemlines are at a status quo, interest is lent by pleating, multiple, sunray, fan, accordion, or shutter. Kerchief points appear on dressy sheer fabrics, scallops and flying pleated panels on daytime shirts and dresses.

Waistline Drop

Focus is on the waistline, which tends to drop to the hips either by a low-placed belt, martingale or bows, or a fool-the-eye pointed yoke.

Focus, too, is on shoulders. They are arched, sometimes built out or slightly puffed.

Every designer is talking about shape achieved through skilled cut and intricate seaming.

Suits look younger with their just-below-the-hipbone jackets, pleated skirts and cut, which fits the body closer.

Dior's two-piece white linen suit is called "Monte Carlo". The straight skirt has two pleats. The blouse is of navy blue linen and is worn with a belt and collar outside the jacket. A touch of red trims the blue straw hat. (AP Wirephotos)

Pink crepe was chosen for this cocktail ensemble from the spring collection of Dior. The jacket, with a rose of the same fabric, and the cuffs of the loose sleeves, are trimmed with pearl drops.

This long evening dress is chartreuse and has short sleeves. Trimmed with gold sequins and a rose matching the dress and placed at the end of the décolletage, the design was presented by Dior of Paris during the spring previews. The shoes match the outfit.

"Prosper" is the name of the suit above, a creation from the summer collection of Lanvin and J. F. Crahay in Paris. In pale pink, the wide, deep jacket is double-breasted and has short raglan sleeves. The blouse is printed with black and pink roses. The outfit is paired with a small matching hat. Paris designer Jacques Herm is responsible for the evening ensemble at right. It features a long sheath of bright raspberry silk, with an embroidered bodice and huge cape.

Clean, Mend Frames When Housecleaning

Don't overlook those pictures hanging on your walls when housecleaning this spring. Framed pictures need the same care and attention as you to be sure they're in good repair. If you find small cracks in the frames, stick shellac in the cracks, which comes in several wood colors as well as gold and silver. If a picture has glass, clean the glass with a damp cloth as dry as possible. Even a small amount of moisture on the glass can seep along the edges and ruin the picture or the mat.

And while you're at it, take a good look at how your framed pictures are hung. Just like furniture needs an occasional rearranging to get a fresh, lively look to your house, so do pictures. Dust your pictures thoroughly with a soft lintless cloth. If the frame is decorated with carving or ornamentation that catches dust, clean with a small soft paint brush, then polish the frame lightly with a clean cloth.

Avoid soap as this leaves a slight film on the glass and attracts dust and soot. Commercial glass cleaners are good, but be sure to polish well so that no film remains.

Spring is also the time to examine your pictures closely. If you find small cracks in the frames, stick shellac in the cracks, which comes in several wood colors as well as gold and silver. If a picture has glass, clean the glass with a damp cloth as dry as possible. Even a small amount of moisture on the glass can seep along the edges and ruin the picture or the mat.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

RESPECTING A NAME

Dear Louise: My husband received a business promotion with a substantial raise in salary. For the first time, I have domestic help. I recently engaged a highly recommended maid who reports to work next week. Her first name is Davis. When I asked her how she would prefer to be called, she answered, "Mrs. Smith." I was taken aback and wonder if I should force the issue. Addressing her as "Mrs. Smith" seems to be going too far.

Louise Davis Answers:

Your new employee is entitled to be called "Mrs. Smith". Everyone is entitled to the same consideration, no matter what his (or her) job or station in life. Why begin breeding resentment by insisting on Elizabeth or Betty? It can very easily get the employer-employee relationship off to a bad start.

GIFT UNWILLINGLY RETURNS
Dear Louise: For my birthday yesterday I received from a friend the very same present I had given her for Christmas in 1962. I recognized it from a pencil mark I put on the bottom of the box myself. Imagine how I feel. Insulted, of course. Should I mention this when I "thank" her for it?

Louise Davis Answers:

No. When you opened the gift, you were undoubtedly surprised or a little shocked, but why let it put a crimp in your friendship by referring to it? Just sincerely thank your friend for the gift as if nothing happened. Imagine how she'd feel if you call her attention to it. You can be sure she didn't do this intentionally. If you have a sense of humor, you will eventually laugh it off. Meanwhile, I advise you to keep your little secret.

To Your Good Health

Kidney Stones Can't All be Dissolved

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had several recent attacks from a kidney stone about the size of a pea. The doctors tell me it cannot be dissolved, that it is too large to pass by itself. The attacks were extremely painful at the time but after a shot of some relaxing drug I was fine again. However, the doctors recommend surgery or else the kidney may be irreparably damaged.

I understand you have stated that kidney stones CAN be dissolved. May I have further information? (Mrs. B. B.)

Yes, I wrote that, and it is true. I said that some kidney stones can be dissolved. I did not say that all can.

In most kidney stone attacks you suffer several times as much pain as from an entire operation. And then some.

Up to now, we know how to dissolve some kidney stones, but not gall stones. I keep making this distinction because people confuse the two—that is, until they have one or the other.

There are different kinds of kidney stones. Some dissolve; some don't. The size also is important. When a stone, because of size or chemical type, will not dissolve, then get it out surgically. Otherwise it will keep on causing trouble (infection and bleeding) and may, as you were told, damage the kidney because of sides. The "dissolving" procedure is a technical hospital procedure. Your urologist should decide whether it is for you.

Dry Cough
Dear Dr. Molner. My 68-year-old uncle has lived with us for some time since his wife passed away.

In the last three years he has developed a dry, hacking cough from smoking too many cigarettes, but he refuses to be X-ray-

ed. He smokes three packages a day besides cigars and a pipe once in a while. He argues that he doesn't inhale and it doesn't hurt him. We can't accept that and we keep pleading with him, but he is a stubborn as a mule. We all read your column. Perhaps your advice will help. (Mrs. K. A.)

I doubt that my advice will help him. Up to now, we know how to dissolve some kidney stones, but not gall stones. I keep making this distinction because people confuse the two—that is, until they have one or the other.

Anyway, I don't know how you can make him stop smoking or anything else, if he doesn't want to. He certainly has read about the surgeon general's report on smoking. I hope he will heed it. I do not believe it possible to smoke without getting some of it into the nose, throat and lungs even if you "don't inhale." It generally irritates these membranes. Hence a "cigarette cough."

I wish the surgeon general's report had added one more thing. Instead of stressing the serious diseases, it might have pointed out that a chronic cough is a strain even if you don't have lung cancer.

Personally I like the logic of a San Francisco doctor who, several years ago, quit smoking just because he didn't want coughing to interrupt his sleep. I think it's a perfectly valid reason.

NOTE TO L.A.C. After three doctors independently have said the "tightness across the stomach" is nerves, why not suspect that maybe they are right? Anyway, give the theory a try. Tell yourself, every morning, "I'm worrying without good reason—so let's, for today, just enjoy life." And if this works once, try it twice.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it!

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge, small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Hilbert Considers Unified Appeal

Advancement Association Will Take Up Issue at Next Meeting

HILBERT — The Advancement Association is considering the possibility of inaugurating a community chest type drive instead of the many separate campaigns which are now conducted in the village.

No action was taken on the matter but more information will be given at the March meeting.

The proposal gained enthusiastic support. Several neighboring communities now are collecting for charitable and service causes with an all-inclusive drive rather than individual drives.

Plans for the annual Fourth of July celebration were launched. Committee chairmen for the affair will hold separate meetings and report to the group on their progress.

Ponath to Determine If County Can Donate To 'Alice' Contest

Ponath was asked to study the legalities of the donation from the county's executive committee.

The contest has been scheduled for May and has received the approval of the State Department of Agriculture. Chamber officials told the committee the chamber and the city of Kaukauna will donate funds toward the competition.

CHILTON — Annual Camp Fire Girls candy sale will begin today and continue through March 7, it was announced by Mrs. C. J. Weber, general chairman.

Orders for candy will be taken by girls from fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Candy will be delivered during the Easter recess.

Assorted Candy

This year, as in the past, the girls will sell boxes of assorted chocolates and pecan turtles.

Proceeds from the candy sale are used primarily for camp activities. Last year some 140 girls took part in some kind of camping program made possible by the candy sale without any cost to the child.

Since the candy sale is the only fund raising activity of the local group, it is the hope of the girls enough candy will be sold to meet increasing costs of summer camp, Mrs. Weber said.

Shiocton English Classes End 15-Week Multilevel Course

SHIOCTON — The freshmen prove the student's ability to read intensively, read comprehensively and listen and take notes.

The principle behind the course is that all reading is done on a multilevel basis. Each student is tested to determine his reading level at the beginning of the program. Reading material he is capable of doing is assigned.

When scoring 90 per cent or better, the student is moved to the next level. The advantage of such a system is that each student progresses at his own individual rate.

Although the final success of the program has not been determined to date, most of the students have increased their reading ability, in turn increasing their capabilities as students, teachers report.

Boy Treated for Minor Injuries After Train Drags Him 33 Feet

An Appleton boy who lay quietly on the railroad tracks while two engines and a portion of a train car passed over him, was in St. Elizabeth Hospital Tuesday being treated for minor injuries from the ordeal.

Timothy Wayne, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wayne, route 2, Appleton, apparently tripped at the front of the train and was dragged 33 feet before being dropped onto the tracks where he lay and waited for the train to pass over him. The accident occurred at Outagamie Street and Prospect Avenue about 4 p.m.

An eyewitness to the bizarre accident, Mrs. Oscar Boldt, 1715 Reid Drive, said she was parked nearby waiting for the train to cross and saw the boy walking backwards toward the train.

"Suddenly he turned," Mrs. Boldt recalled, "and seemed to walk right into the front of the train."

Between Rails

The youth apparently was caught on the front portion of the train then dragged 33 feet before he was dropped onto the track bed between the rails. Police said the portion of the steel track at the accident site was higher than normal and allowed room for the boy to lie without being struck by the undercarriage of the train.

Members of the train crew heading east on the tracks, had seen the youth go under the front of the train and quickly stopped the engine.

Mrs. Boldt said she ran to where the youth was lying and he began to move. She told him to lie quietly. "The boy said nothing to her, but did lie still. She said she thought at the time the boy was severely injured. She summoned police who called Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Ambulance drivers said the boy "seemed all right" when taken to the hospital. He talked little about his experience, but complained that his legs hurt and he was cut on the head.

Before the accident the boy had been walking with a friend near the train intersection, Mrs. Boldt said, and it appeared he was pretending to catch a ball "or some sort of thing."

Commercials Capture Crown

Sponsors Grabbed Title Says 'Radioside' Scribe

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Old Man Barnum couldn't have pulled a better coup.

We're talking about Tuesday night's world championship fight.

Well, actually there were two battles going at once for those of us who were at radioside.

One was in the ring at Miami where Louisville Lip Cassius Clay and Silent Sonny Liston danced about, dollar signs glowing in their eyes.

The other was along the radio network where an all-out encounter took place to determine the championship commercial.

It represented a new dimension in fight broadcasting for us less fortunate who couldn't afford the stipend of closed circuit TV.

Short Time

There were so many commercials before the fight one could detect the feeling sponsors were fearful that Mr. Clay would be putty in Mr. Liston's mitts, and there just wouldn't be enough time to herald the attributes of their products.

Instead of the usual between-round commentary, Fox Cities radiosiders were mistreated to a barrage of commercials coming within split seconds of cutting in on the actual description of the ring activity. Listeners constantly heard about soft drinks, man-sized cigars, razor blades, men's hair oil and other assorted products.

Often the end of the singing commercial was punctuated with the clang of the bell to start the next round.

The least the announcer could have said was, "We'll be back with more commercials after this next round."

Ironically, they didn't have a judge to count commercials during the knockdowns, but he wouldn't have been needed because no one kissed the canvass.

Different Score Cards

When the one - ring circus was over at the end of the seventh round, radio fans were treated to a steady diet of Clay and commercials.

Clay won on a technical knockout and is the new world's champ.

Those who kept scorecards at ringside had the fight scored even after seven stanzas of "Waltzing Matilda."

However, those of us on the receiving end of the airwaves scored the fight differently.

The writer's scorecard had the commercials way ahead of the gladiators.

And when adding up all the points, there was no doubt about the winners. (We rooted for the gal singing the soft drink ditty.)

That's right, we said winners.

The sponsors, who else?

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works will meet at city hall at 6:30 p.m. Monday prior to a tour of two areas in the city where erosion problems have been reported.

Aldermen will view the washing out of a portion of Sixteenth Street and the sinking of land behind the swimming pool in the Konkapot Creek area. The responsible for the acts and advisory engineer will be on hand to make recommendations as to possible solutions.

After viewing areas, aldermen will reconvene at the municipal building to review truck specifications for bids.

Johnson Probing Into World Trouble Spots

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, in search of better if not new ways to handle trouble spots like Latin America and Viet Nam, just moves one man in on another without waiting for resignations.

But Fidel Castro's Cuba still seems to baffle him, as it did President John F. Kennedy. He was President less than a month when he decided to improve on the Latin-American policies he inherited from Kennedy. Having decided, he moved suddenly.

Mexican Ambassador NN. He lifted Thomas C. Mann, 51-year-old Texan, from his job as ambassador to Mexico and put him in charge of all Latin-American affairs with the title of assistant secretary of state and White House adviser.

Mann thus replaced Edwin M. Martin who thereupon took a few months off before becoming an ambassador in Latin America.

So far there has been no noticeable change in this country's Latin-American policy but meanwhile the Panamanians rioted against Americans in the Panama Canal Zone, causing a new trouble.

Bad to Worse. In South Viet Nam, which this country has backed for eight years against the Communist guerrillas of North Viet Nam, the situation seems to be going from bad to worse.

On Dec. 14, the same day the Johnson elevated Mann, Roger lack of serious opposition when the proposal was aired in a public hearing Dec. 3 in Madison.

The proposed 345,000-volt line, which got a lot of attention but contained nothing new. Although Hillsman's province included Viet Nam, that day he, extending through the Eau Claire-Chippewa Falls area to Stevens Point. From Stevens Point south, the line would produce changes in under the jurisdiction of Wisconsin Electric.

Ralph Purucker, chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, placed the highest authorized potential of a power line now operating in Wisconsin at 220,000 volts. He said the Minneapolis to Chicago link, began assassinating Americans would service primarily as a power reservoir to be tapped in cases of regular line breakdowns.

Purucker said land owners in the Wood County community of Rudolph had raised some objections to prices the utility offered for right-of-way but that the dissents were not general. A utility has condemnation power, but can not proceed with construction until its titles are clear.

The Public Service Commission has no authority over rights-of-way but is the state's officer in matters pertaining to line heights and clearance and supporting structures.

Purucker would not speculate on when the three-member commission would reach a decision on the proposal.

In addition Sullivan will head a new committee to examine and pull together American policy in Viet Nam. The committee includes senior officers from the State and Defense departments and other agencies.

Tuesday, one day after the announcement about Sullivan, released.

Hillsman, a key official in the past in developing U.S. policies on Viet Nam, resigned.

Hillsman said his resignation was "not related to policy issues" and the White House said he wanted to return to teaching.

But there is no indication Johnson is going to do anything new about Fidel Castro's Cuba or that there is anything new he can do. Tuesday night Rusk made a speech.

He spoke almost mournfully of the fact that the British and French persist in selling trucks and buses to Castro and he said "there will be no retreat from our policy toward Cuba" so long as it is a threat.

This, like Hillsman's speech on China, wasn't new, either.

Showdown Seen for States' Democrats

Nelson delegate candidates. The allegiance of those delegates is not surely known. The Reynolds-Lucey men claim that in a serious test they would have a majority on their side.

The importance of the Hanson-Nelson claim apparently lies in their belief that the widely attended district meetings, held amid prominent publicity about the party's factionalism, amounted to a referendum vote among the dues-payers on their choices for party command.

The crisis at the meeting will come in the selection of aspirants for the coveted at-large delegate seats, between adherents of one faction and the other.

Mrs. Cherkasky in Fight There will almost surely be an effort by the Hanson-Nelson faction, for example, to nominate Mrs. Shirley Cherkasky of Appleton, a vice chairman of the state party, for a delegate seat which they claim she was denied in her own Eighth district caucus through the intervention of Gov. Reynolds.

Conversely, there may be a test vote on the nomination of others thought to be pro-Lucey and Reynolds, including William Riggins, the Milwaukee county party chairman, who somewhat surprisingly lost out for a nomination for district delegate at his own party meeting recently.

The Democrats are working with the consciousness of a deadline confronting them. It is now accepted that President Johnson is not inclined to involve himself in the primary battles of the states—being sure of a renomination in any event. But the White House has not re-elected president Tuesday of made such a declaration publicly and probably won't do so.

Appleton's Financial Future

The price a community must pay for progress is often a costly one and points up the truth in the old saying that taxes and death are inevitable.

The Sunday Post-Crescent carried a story painting a general picture of Appleton's present financial condition, and a projection through 1965 which indicated the city could conceivably be about $22 million in debt because of public improvements and new school building.

Lest alarmists misinterpret the facts and figures, we might point out Appleton is probably the most fortunate city in the Fox Valley in that it is enjoying economic prosperity which has enabled it to carry out municipal projects in the past few years that should have been accomplished years ago.

The city's debt service is $14,572,500, including $5,659,812 for school purposes. To be added to the total is an estimated $1,600,000 for the Albert Einstein school to be built this year.

Appleton is at 56 per cent of its debt limitation set by state statute. Financially speaking, it is presently on safe ground when it comes to bonded indebtedness. However, the future does hold some challenge and calls for following a continued sound financial course.

The suggestion by a pair of aldermen—Harold Hannebann, finance committee chairman and Alvin E. Tews, committee member—that the common council take inventory of coming projects, and lay out a systematic schedule for financing them, has merit.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell, who has shown ability in guiding the city's most needed improvements and getting things done, indicated he is in 100 per cent agreement. We concur in his action of calling a special council meeting next month to discuss long-range projects and the city's future ability to pay.

Surely no one can deny that for many years the Appleton tax rate was held down while needed improvements were held up. As a result, separation and replacement of old, outmoded storm and sanitary sewer facilities has been undertaken over a two-year period, costing more than $2 million. When the work is done, Appleton will no longer have chronic flooding problems.

The city has been expanding, the population increasing, and the need for more school construction is evident. Close to $2 million will be spent this year and school officials are talking about a new high school in 1965 which will cost more than $4 million. We would suggest that representatives of the school board be present at the special meeting and get a firsthand picture of the city's overall financial situation and ability to pay.

Rapid growth produces nutty community problems. But these are nice problems for a city to have and if everyone in the city administration takes a hard long-range look at them they are entirely solvable.

Recreation Act Compromise

A legislative conference committee has brought out a proposal for the relief of the stalemate in the legislature on the administration of the outdoors recreational land acquisition program adopted three years ago at the initiative of Gaylord Nelson, then governor.

As originally written the act included features which were clearly designed to meet some of the practical legislative political obstacles of the time, including a requirement for the publication of project priorities for land buying at two year intervals that was intended to appeal to doubtful legislators by arousing their provincial interests. By listing a long series of lake and park and other recreational proposals Gov. Nelson shrewdly picked up enough votes to pass a bill which the legislature was not particularly anxious to pass. In this connection, it is useful to remember that even with such maneuverings, the senate margin for enactment was a single vote.

The original act also set up a new administrative mechanism, in the form of an inter-departmental committee, in spite of the fact that the Conservation Commission is the basic recreational agency of the state and in spite of the fact that virtually all of the money authorized to be spent is used by the Conservation Commission and all of the projects will be operated by that commission and lands bought or leased administered by it.

Now the legislative conference report, after a year of deadlock, has forthrightly proposed to eliminate the requirement for priorities publicity, and to abolish the recreation committee.

We believe the report should be adopted. For the state to signal its land buying intentions, it is quite plain, is to invite inflation of prices. There are reports that land speculators have already exploited this naive way of doing business. It is true that the state has the power of eminent domain, but condemnation of desired parcels is not likely. The Conservation Department has been reluctant to condemn even in instances where long-established parks needed such action to provide public ownership of private enclosures within the boundaries. There are political and public relations considerations here that make officials understandably cautious.

The recreation committee is superfluous, and its original establishment was obviously a reflection of Mr. Nelson's unsatisfactory personal relations with the Conservation Commission. But since that time Nelson and his successor, Gov. Reynolds, have appointed a majority of the conservation commissioners and if they can't trust them to handle this program adequately, they have only themselves to blame.

If the commission which has charge of all other recreational land business at Madison should be repudiated in this detail, then it is time for those who want to superimpose another layer of bureaucracy to come up with a proposal to abolish and recreate it so that it can perform adequately.

The Bar and Judicial Candidates

It is encouraging that the Wisconsin State Bar will conduct a poll of the attorneys in the state for their opinions on the three candidates seeking a post on the Wisconsin Supreme Court this spring. The attorneys are in the best possible position to evaluate the professional qualifications of the candidates and their opinion will be a valuable guide to state voters.

Campaigning for a judicial position is a difficult task for there are few issues open for discussion. This is particularly true for an incumbent judge who is prevented from discussing any case he has participated in or any case he may be called to rule upon in the future. Thus voters many times cast their ballots 'in the dark' when stating their preferences in a judicial race.

The state bar stood up to be counted recently on the qualifications of David Rabinovitz to be a federal judge. Their more recent action in announcing a poll on the supreme court justice candidates is further evidence that the bar is willing to expose its opinions to public view. Active public participation by attorneys in judicial campaigns should help to maintain the high quality of the Wisconsin judiciary.

Thoughts on Pencils

This is National Pencil Week, a week in which everyone is supposed to think grand thoughts about the pencil and what it has done for our modern civilization. Maybe we haven't thought enough about pencils in recent years what with the popularity of the ball point pen. But did you ever realize that pencils do lots of other things than just write?

For example, if your zipper gets stuck, did you ever think of rubbing the point along the stuck teeth? That black writing point isn't lead, it's graphite, and graphite is one of the best lubricants you can find. Try it when your auto lock gets stuck, too: the professionals use graphite, not oil.

On a trip, a pencil in your glove compartment is useful to twist a tourniquet if an accident should occur but you may also find that the point will unravel a knotted shoelace or fishing line. Then again, the eraser makes a dandy typewriter key cleaner, and it won't scratch the bowl if you clean the tobacco from your pipe with it.

Want more proof of the pencil's versatility? You can use it as an emergency back-scratcher, to prop up a window when the sash cord breaks, as a garden stake to mark the rows, and as an emergency ruler (it's seven inches long unsharpened).

Very good for chewing on, too, if you've just quit smoking.

Looking Backward

Amend Charter, Urges Crescent

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Feb. 20, 1864.

"Time and tide wait for no man" is a trite proverb but it's applicable alike to corporations as to individuals. We are led to these reflections from the hazardous lethargy that prevails in reference to the local demands of this city.

Will anything beyond the usual programme be effected during the coming season to advance the interests and growth of Appleton?

Will disorganization and lack of unanimity throttle all attempts at making new and necessary improvements?

Will greed of office by partisan bigots swallow all well directed efforts towards rescuing our place from the grave of do-nothingism?

Shall the Charter be amended by the Council or some Committee in order to open the way towards the desiderata required? Will anything be done before the (state) Legislature adjourns?

Either our people must set about perfecting the necessary measures to secure these improvements immediately or nothing will be done this year! Business Men, Capitalists, Landholders, Manufacturers, Mechanics and Laboring Men must do something now, or else give our place over to the moths and dust of Old Fogysm!

Amend the Charter, change the bond bill so we can issue other bonds for the purposes of improvement. Then, elect energetic, competent and honest men for the responsible offices, and the balance of the work is already accomplished.

Will you do it, Appletonians?

U. S. Economic Blockade Against Cuba as Full of Holes as Sieve

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

This country's so-called "economic blockade" against Communist-ruled Cuba is as full of holes as a sieve, and all indications are this farcical situation will continue.

That provision Congress wrote into the foreign aid budget last year, over strenuous White House opposition, barring aid to countries doing business with this Red satellite is to be largely bypassed. The recent widely-publicized crackdown on Britain, France and Yugoslavia, whose U.S. assistance now amounts to only a few hundred thousand dollars, was merely a faint tap on the wrist that is going no further.

There are to be no really tough cut-offs of aid dollars.

Foreign diplomats here are saying privately they have word from State Department authorities that no major beneficiary of U.S. aid doing business with Kremlin-puppet Castro will be hit by the congressional ban.

These diplomats are claiming they have been told the Johnson administration will get around that by invoking a loophole in the provision. Under this "escape clause" the President can waive the restriction by formally proclaiming that is in the "national interest."

Foremost among the countries slated for such waiver is Spain which has just granted the U.S. a much-needed base for a squadron of nuclear submarines armed with Polaris missiles.

In fiscal 1963 Spain received $61 million in U.S. aid. To that date total U.S. aid to Spain was $1,742 billion.

Of the 22 free-world countries trading with Cuba, 14 have received large amounts of U.S. aid, some of them billions. These billion-dollar beneficiaries include Belgium-Luxembourg, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Britain and Japan — with Egypt and Chile almost in that class with more than $800 million each.

THE GRIM DETAILS—Representative Paul Rogers, D-Fla., author of the restrictive provision, is set to offer it again in this year's foreign aid budget.

President Johnson already has indicated he will ask for a total of $3.4 billion; $2.4 bil-

Dismissing State Fair Ad Agency May Mean Dangerous Precedent

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A new conception of state administration is proposed or implied in the demand of a member of the State Exposition Board for the dismissal of its advertising agency on the ground that it also serves some partisan political clients.

Wyngaard

Francis Rondeau, a leading member of the state Democratic Party organization and a man so close to Gov. Reynolds as to draw special attention to his motions, is a member of the board which was created a few years ago to operate the state fair, formerly administered as a division of the State Department of Agriculture. The board is now working out a plan for a relocation of the fair and its transformation into a bigger and more representative exposition. Such a program obviously puts a heavy responsibility on its public information and advertising services. The contract for such services is now held by a Milwaukee agency in which two enterprising young men named Charles Davis and Richard McDonald are principal partners.

They are Republicans. They have worked in at least one Republican statewide campaign apiece in the past and this year are tentatively involved in the preliminary efforts of other Republican candidates. That fact has annoyed Commissioner Rondeau, who recently moved that they be dismissed from the state retainer.

THE IDEA

With deference to Rondeau's party loyalty, if not his imagination or his acquaintance with the traditions of state administration, his proposal if it is enacted by his colleagues on this management board will provide a suggestive precedent for the operation of the state as a whole which spends tens of millions of dollars each year for contracted services and supplies.

Presumably McDonald - Davis, like hundreds of other suppliers of goods and services, were retained because they offered the most satisfactory program for the best price. The competition for such contracts in other agencies is severe. There is no reason to believe that an exception was made in this case, especially since this board was created and its appointment filled during the terms of Democratic governors. Mr. Rondeau apparently makes no complaint about the kind of work the partnership is doing. He is worried, he says, about a couple of advertising men who are otherwise committed to the Republicans working part-time for a state agency.

Aside from what this may imply for a full-time, career employee of the state who happens to let it be known that he prefers Republicans, there is the question of hundreds of consultants and purveyors of many other services, and more particularly the vendors of multi-million dollar equipment and supply accounts, and especially, the building and highway contractors dealing with the state in an era of enormous building programs. Will their rights to bid and their rights to serve be affected by the Rondeau rule as now suggested in the exposition board?

PATRONAGE PRACTICE?

Dismissal of a state contractor today on the ground that he is a Republican, during a period of Democratic control of the state executive department, would appear to sensitive ears as an echo of the patronage practices that have become so notorious in other parts of the country. Commissioner Rondeau, involved as he has been in the passionate in-fighting of his own political party lately and preparing for a stiff campaign against the labeled Republican enemy in the fall, should have consulted his friend Gov. Reynolds before making his motion.

The governor's favorite theme as a political leader and philosopher is civil rights.

To dismiss a state contractor for his political affiliations and for his independent professional work in his private office would be the kind of thing the governor would regard as offensive and punishable if it involved race, color or religion.

Flexibility Real Mark Of Executive Capacity

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend of mine, who is the head of a good-sized industrial concern, mentioned my recent column on the "strong" and the "weak" executives.

"The word you used that stuck in my mind," he said, "is the word 'flexible.' To me, that's the real mark of executive capacity."

"Why do you single out that characteristic?" I asked. "Because the main problem we have with executives and managers and administrators," he explained, "usually boils down to one thing: their complete rigidity. They simply don't know how to bend."

"Maybe they consider their stiffness a sign of strength," I ventured.

"I don't know what they consider it," he shrugged, "but it certainly retards any real development in our plant. These days, unless a company has imagination and versatility and flexibility, it can't hope to compete in a changing market. And the emotional make-up of most managerial people is dead-set against any innovation in thinking or procedure."

"Why do you suppose these men of yours are so rigid?" I asked him.

"It's partly fear of being wrong," he answered. "If you do something the way it's always been done, nobody can blame you if it doesn't work. That kind of rigidity is a self-protective device — it's not really for the sake of the company, but for face-saving purposes."

"It's hard for a great many people to give up entrenched ways of thinking and feeling and acting," I suggested. "And it's interesting to see what often happens to them when two incompatible beliefs confront one another squarely — they simply 'solve' the problem by ignoring one of them entirely, and clinging desperately to their own irrational idea of what 'reality' is."

"Could you explain that a little better?" he asked. "I'll tell you one of Larry Adler's favorite stories to explain it," I said. "It's about a man who walks into a doctor's office and says, 'Doctor, I'm dead.' The doctor says, 'How do you know?', and the man answers, 'I just feel dead, that's all. I'm sure of it. But just to prove to myself I'm not a nut, I've come here for clinical confirmation. Will you examine me?'"

The doctor nodded, "All right. First of all, let's see if we can agree on something. You'll agree that a dead person doesn't bleed?" The man shook his head. "Of course, any schoolchild knows a dead person doesn't bleed." "Very well," said the doctor, "I'll just make a little incision in your hand — if you bleed, you're alive; if you don't you're dead. Satisfy you?" "Go right ahead," the man said, offering his hand.

"The doctor made an incision. It began bleeding. What do you know?" exclaimed the man. "Dead people do bleed!"

Dear Glenn:

Having just closed our books on another successful year, we are now looking forward to greater plans for expansion in 1964. Naturally this process involves examination of our sales promotion.

It is interesting to review our budget of the past 15 years. Each year over 85% of our advertising budget has been invested in the display and classified columns of the Appleton Post-Crescent. We feel this has been a wise investment. Your media has allowed us to economically inform prospective home and apartment buyers what we have to offer. Response to our model home showings has been consistently good.

The Post-Crescent's complete coverage of the area we are serving assists our efforts to help build the Fox Cities into the best place to live in Wisconsin.

Our thanks to Max Tungate and John Felker for the cooperation they have cheerfully contributed.

Sincerely,

W. W. Witt

Opportunity to Settle Panama Canal Dispute

An International Court Could be Asked for Advisory

BY DAVID LAWRENCE WASHINGTON — President Johnson has an opportunity to settle the dispute with Panama amicably and to the satisfaction of both sides. He has only to invoke a little-used but very important procedure whereby the legal points which have arisen can be submitted to an impartial tribunal for an advisory opinion that will not necessarily be binding on both sides. The parties could, of course, agree in advance, if they so desired, to accept the decision as binding. The reason for such a step is that the points in dispute between the two governments are really legal rather than political. There are, of course, political overtones. Also, passions have been aroused on both sides. But fundamentally the obstacle to a satisfactory settlement to day is the question as to just what legal obligation either party has to negotiate a revision of the existing treaty between the United States and Panama. The source of the difficulty is, as usual, to be found in the desire of each side to have its own viewpoint prevail. The United States, for example, construes the existing treaty to have been made "in perpetuity." This means that the terms of the treaty cannot be altered by the wish of one party, though the United States could on its own give up all rights under the treaty and withdraw entirely from the zone. There is a long-standing principle in law that contracts cannot be changed except by mutual consent. They can be broken, but the party which breaks the contract must take the consequences — legal or otherwise. Treaty Revision The Panamanian government insisted that a revision of the treaty be "negotiated." The United States government agreed only to a "discussion." But the moment the Panamanian government said that the discussion was to be a "negotiation," the United States refused to go along. For it interpreted this as a demand for a concession—a pledge in advance by the United States to revise the treaty along the lines insisted upon by Panama. The Panamanian position is that the treaty cannot be regarded as "in perpetuity" and that, when the United States agrees to "negotiate" this point, it has, in effect, conceded that the treaty cannot be continued thereafter without the consent of Panama. Naturally, the Panamanians would like to secure such a concession. The United States government, on the other hand, feels it should not give away any such advantage in advance of the discussion or conference and that it would be creating a precedent of far-reaching proportions if it conceded that any contract can be altered at any time merely by the demand of one or the other of the two parties which have signed a treaty for a given period or "in perpetuity."

There are two kinds of disputes between nations which have caused trouble in the past. One is of the political sort that has sometimes yielded to mediation or to diplomatic settlement. The other kind is strictly legal. It has for a long time been argued that legal disputes should be submitted to tribunals of judges competent to deal with such questions. In fact, this is the basic reason why there has long been a crusade for the establishment of a World Court. It began many years ago—even before the League of Nations was formed. Lawyers in various countries have called for a "World of Law" and have insisted that many disputes could be settled satisfactorily if submitted to an international tribunal whose judges were chosen for the express purpose of passing on international legal questions. At present there is an International Court of Justice, which sits at The Hague. It is an integral part of the United Nations, and all U.N. members are parties to the statute under which the court operates, though they are not required to submit every dispute with other nations to the court. They may even challenge the court's jurisdiction in any dispute. Once a case is submitted, however, the United States and Panama have accepted the compulsory jurisdiction of the court in all legal disputes in certain areas, but submission of cases outside those areas—such as the Panama Canal treaty—is purely voluntary. Advisory Opinion The court may also be asked by the General Assembly or Security Council of the U.N. to give an advisory opinion on any legal question. Thus, the United States or Panama can today voluntarily submit to the court, through the United Nations, the question of whether an agreement to discuss points of difference constitutes an obligation to reopen a treaty or whether the word "negotiate" merely means discussion without either party losing its rights or being obligated, even by implication, to vary the terms of the treaty if no satisfactory agreement has been reached through conference or otherwise. With all the talk about the advances that have been made in the field of law, and particularly in the settlement of international disputes without military action, it would seem appropriate that the existing machinery of the International Court be utilized by both sides to determine whether a mere discussion of terms of revision constitutes any surrender of rights on the part of the United States to maintain the treaty in its present form if it so desires of pessimism. They have lost and if it is not persuaded by the faith in themselves and their fellow men. Their system is static. Ours is dynamic. "We offer not a blueprint for government control wrap itself tighter and tighter around our free economy. Economic freedom, the most critical of all our personal freedoms, is being suffocated," said Goldwater, a Los Angeles stock broker. Vital Point There is no one vital point at which counter attack can be aimed which discourages people to a point of giving up, he said. "Government reaches a point where it tends to perpetuate and extend itself as an end, not a means. It is no longer controllable. It becomes a separate entity, divorced from limitations and directions which its founders intended. It becomes like that faithful dog that eats out of your hand, right up to the elbow," said Goldwater. Government is seeking to control areas in which there is no need for control, and medicare is a case in point, he said. "The facilities already are in operation, on local levels, for the medical care of the aged and impoverished. Doctors give freely of their time to serve in free clinics, county hospitals, free out-patient programs. Voluntary health insurance has done an outstanding job," Goldwater said. In international affairs, said Goldwater, the nation has no direction, has become the master of compromise, and has the appearance of fighting a rear guard action with an attitude that communism already has triumphed. But we do have foreign aid, he chided. "It would seem we have spent enough money in foreign aid in 19 years to have purchased the world outright and done with it as we wished. Can it be that hard learned respect for our own might and our free system makes better friends than all the gold that used to be in Fort Knox?" he asked. Goldwater said the present college-age generation could be the last that can reverse the trend, and he said the job could be done. "Our foes are the advocates of pessimism. They have lost and if it is not persuaded by the faith in themselves and their fellow men. Their system is static. Ours is dynamic. "We offer not a blueprint for

Presidential Candidate's Son Slaps At Domestic, International Programs

BY JAMES BARTELT Post-Crescent News Service GREEN BAY — The United States in both its domestic and international undertakings is plagued by a "failure of nerve," said Barry Goldwater Jr. said Monday night in a campaign appearance for his father here. "As long as this country could produce men, individuals, who were not afraid to act as their conscience directed them, who could stand up and face down a mob, we had leaders in every area of our national life," said the 25-year old son of the Arizona senator who hopes to win the Republican presidential nomination. "Day by day, week by week, I see the soft, warm shroud of dictation of the court in all legal disputes in certain areas, but submission of cases outside those areas—such as the Panama Canal treaty—is purely voluntary."

a bigger government machine, but a direction for any and all men who are not satisfied with federal hand-outs," he said. The Goldwater rally attracted about 400 to the Elks Club. Mark Stewart, chairman of an Eighth District Goldwater Club, said all had bought tickets at $1.75 for adults or $1 for students and that a final report may show more tickets were bought by some who did not come. The crowd included John Conway, Appleton, Eighth District GOP chairman, and Tom Skogg, Brown County party chairman. The state party machinery at present is behind the Rep. John Byrnes favorite son plan, and the Monday night crowd included but a sprinkling of those who normally attend party affairs. The program was co-sponsored by Brown County Young Republicans, and the audience was heavy with college-age persons. One of them penciled a Johnson-For-President tag and attached it to his necktie as Goldwater spoke. At the last council meeting Mitchell said today he hoped to schedule a committee of the whole session after next Wednesday night's regular meeting, or the night of March 12. No Delay "We want to expedite this because there should be no unnecessary delay in carrying out birth certificates and parents are asked not to bring the children to be enrolled along to the school."

Dates Set to Register for Kindergarten

'The Defenders' Opens Tonight On Broadway

Controversy Already Hot Over Drama That Attacks Pope Pius XII

NEW YORK (AP)—A Broadway play which accuses the late Pope Pius XII of failing to speak out against Hitler's mass murder of Jews has stirred controversy here even before its opening. During its European presentation, spectators leaped onto the stage to attack the actors.

The play's German author, Rolf Hochhuth, 33, who was a teen-age member of Hitler's Youth Corps, arrived Monday for the play's opening tonight.

He said he hopes his drama, "The Deputy," is received "more factually and less emotionally" than it was overseas "Unjust Attack"

Pope Paul VI has labeled the play an unjust attack on Pope Pius, who died in 1958. Pope Paul said his predecessor was well known for "his compassion for human suffering, his courage and his gentleness of heart."

In the play, a young Jesuit priest confronts the pontiff with evidence of Nazi atrocities and pleads with him to issue a papal denunciation.

Pope Pius is depicted as replying, "A diplomat must see a great deal—and say nothing." He then reasons, in the script, that Hitler is a necessary barrier between Soviet communism and the Christian West, and adds: "We must let him have a pardon so long as he is useful in the East."

Rip Torn's Neurotic Makes Hit

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 4-5) — A good performance by Rip Torn makes "The Eleventh Hour" stand out on an unexciting evening. Torn once again plays a neurotic, but this time he's sympathetic. His problem is that he's tied to his mother's apron strings and we watch as these are snipped

6:30-7 (Channel 2) — Chronicle takes any viewer who cares to tag along on a tour of The Players Club, an historic New York club founded by Edwin Booth. Cameras were allowed inside the old place for the first time and show you some great paintings and theatrical memorabilia

6:30-8 — The Virginian's plot is old enough to rate a pension. It's the ancient story of the wounded man who loses his identification and is thought to be a killer. (Color)

7-7:30 (Channel 11)—The fun on The Patty Duke Show is predictable, but it's still fun. The gimmick is that Patty and Cathy are coned by a smooth vacuum-cleaner salesman (Paul Reed) into buying a machine with more attachments than a space ship So they try to sell it to somebody else.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey meets his match in grouchiness in Michael Vincent Halloran, played by Harry Guardino. This chap, a doctor and ex-con, is pressed into service by Casey during an emergency.

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — When we left The Dick Van Dyke Show last week, Sally (Rose Marie) was a budding television star

She still is, which poses a problem for Dick and Morey Amsterdam.

8-10 (Channel 2) — Buddy Ebsen shows the world which other crafts will meet at 8 p.m. on The Beverly Hillbillies that discuss training problems. Also included in the discussion is the possibility of a hillbilly Thursday at the courthouse to show Buddy and Danny do a offering craft instructions at the lighthearted song-and-dance summer 4-H camp.
